
A HOT DEAL

Tell you what I'm gonna do. How would you like to buy a 56,000-acre homesite, with crater, for $25? The Astronomical Society of the Pacific can arrange it.

A Price for a View Lot That's Out of This World

Sure the commute is a little long. But the climate in the winter is nice, and the price is right — about $10 for a nice 14,000 acre view lot.

And if you happen onto some water you can always fill in one of the craters and make a combination swimming pool/fish pond out of it.

After listening to this seemingly logical sales pitch for homesites, I wouldn't blame anyone for shoving their way to the head of the line for a deed.

A few minor questions we asked of the salesman were:

"How much of a commute are we talking about?"

The salesman was quick to point out "a mere 36 million miles — practically nothing."

He added that the run to Mercury can be made by practically any old rocket ship in a few weeks.

The only drawback, of course, is that once a person is en route home, or returning to earth from work, there could be no stopping to fuel around in between the two planets.

Of course the answer would be to get a job on Mercury.

Perhaps open a rocket wash, or one of those float-in heavenly hamburger spots.

The Astronomical Society of the Pacific (ASP) based at 75 Southgate Ave. in Daly City is pushing the land "sales" in an effort to raise funds to carry on its non-profit work, according to Dr. Richard Reis, ASP Executive Director.

Dr. Reis says there are many advantages of being a resident property owner on Mercury.

Not only is there a low tax base, liberal zoning ordinances, a pollution-free environment and awe-inspiring views (especially when there's a full earth), but the crime rate is extremely low.

While New Englanders are huddling for warmth in the winter, the population of Mercury is basking in 800 degree (fahrenheit) sun.

And those folks who weigh in at 185 pounds on earth will weigh only 71.2 pounds on Mercury.

ASP previously was based at the Academy of Sciences in San Francisco and has been in existence for the past 86 years.

The money received for "sales," though Dr. Reis is quick to admit ASP doesn't legally own any of the land, will be used for astronomical education materials for students.

It is a non-profit organiza-

Crocker Says Attempts by SF to Thwart Bruno Mountain Development Will Fail

Apparent attempts by some members of the San Francisco Board of Supervisors to thwart development on San Bruno Mountain by cutting off water and sewage services will not succeed, a spokesman for Crocker Land Company said this week.

M. Sherman Eubanks, manager of Crocker Land Company, said his firm has valid agreements for water and sewage services between the Guadalupe Valley Municipal Improvement District and the City of San Francisco.

The GVMID, of which Eubanks is Chairman of the Board, entered into a 20 year water agreement with San Francisco's Department of Public Works in 1960.

Two years ago, the GVMID signed a 30-year sewage treatment contract with San Francisco, Eubanks pointed out.

At a July 11 meeting of the San Francisco Supervisors' Finance Committee, called by Supervisor Diane Feinstein, both contracts were reviewed.

The Committee is made up of Feinstein, and supervisors Dorothy von Beroldingen, John Molinari and Alfred Nelder.

Only Von Beroldingen and Nelder showed up for the meeting.

Eubanks said the meeting appeared to be the latest attempt by some conservationist groups to prevent development on San Bruno Mountain — owned by Crocker Land Company and managed by the GVMID.

"I am completely satisfied that the agreements we have entered into with the Public Works Department (of San Francisco) are legal and enforcible," Eubanks said.

A joint venture group composed of Crocker, Foremost-McKesson and AMFAC corporation envision a planned community of some 29,000, complete with a commercial shopping complex, in the so-called "saddle area" of the vast mountain.

Of the 3,400 acres on the mountain, some 1,400 will be held as a regional park.

The planning is now before San Mateo County planners who have been working with Visitacion Rancho Associates (proposed development name) since the Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) stuck the mountain in the sphere of influence of Brisbane last year.

If San Francisco attempts to cut off water to the mountain — which would include the $24 million Crocker Industrial Park near Brisbane — it could set a disastrous precedent for other San Mateo communities, city officials here feel.

Most cities along the Peninsula depend on the Hetch Hetchy system for their water. The Hetch Hetchy system is owned and operated by San Francisco.

In 1960, San Francisco signed agreements with many cities as a means of guaranteeing water revenues needed to float bonds for improvement of the system.

This is also true of sewage agreements reached between San Francisco and the GVMID, Eubanks explained.

State and Federal environmental rules have stiffened and San Francisco must upgrade its sewage system.

Brisbane and the Bayshore District of Daly City, along with Crocker Industrial Park, pump effluent wastewater to San Francisco for treatment and discharge it near the Golden Gate Bridge.

Until the opening last year of the new Bayshore pumping plant, Brisbane and Crocker used the GVMID plant.

Several San Mateo County cites have already grouped together to fight any water rate increases or other "modifications" to existing agreements.

Legal opinions on the subject of cutting off water to the mountain, especially while Crocker has a valid agreement with San Francisco, probably would be considered "discriminatory" and end up in court.

Asked why the supervisors called the meeting of July 11, Eubanks said there had been apparent pressure applied to the Board of Supervisors by conservationist groups in both San Francisco and San Mateo counties.

"At the meeting, councilman Paul Goercke presented a resolution unanimously passed by the Brisbane city council asking that the entire mountain be placed in the Golden Gate National Park project," Eubanks said.

The purported reason for calling the meeting was to discuss whether the city's Public Works Department could enter into agreements with other communities for water and sewage services.

San Francisco's city charter allows the PWD to exclusive right to serve outside agencies and does not grant this authority to the Board of Supervisors in such matters, "although they were aware of these agreements," a source close to the issue said.

Conflict of Interest?

Hupf to Represent Developer in Suit

By FRANK LaPIERRE

The Daly City legal firm of Hupf, Etcheverry & Blum is expected to represent developer Gerson Bakar, owner of some 3,000 apartment units in that city, in a suit against the North San Mateo County Sanitation District, The Post has learned.

Frank blum Jr., partner in the firm, acknowledged action would soon be filed on behalf of Bakar in an attempt to alter current guidelines for levying fees for discharge of wastewater into the North County system.

Blum said he expected the filing to take place "sometime in September" upon return of vacationing Paul Hupf.

During the past four months, the three-member NSMCSD Board of Directors, after accepting plans for expansion and modernization of their treatment plant at Lake Merced Avenue and John Daly Drive, elected to impose a special surtax on homeowners, apartments, and commercial facilities within the district.

Under these guidelines, apartments would pay the same as homeowners, while commercial activities such as restaurants and hotels, would get lower rates.

And that's where the rub is, according to Edward King, of Gerson Bakar Inc.

No one disputes the need for upgrading the treatment of local wastewater — the State has already decreed that this must be done or stiff penalties will result.

It's the amount of the surtaxes that are being contested, argues King.

King believes homes discharge more wastewater on the average than apartments.

"Why should a studio apartment with one person living in it pay the same as a home with several persons?" King asks.

The flat rate cost set by the NSMCSD for homes and apartments is $29 annually.

Seniors and persons qualifying under state aid programs get a break on the rate, it was understood.

A $30,000 computer study of the issue taken some three years ago suggested the fees be based on the amount of water a home, business or apartment uses.

King says apartments are being discriminated against in this matter and that's why he feels Bakar hired Hupf.

Hupf also is a Daly City councilman, but he will not be able to act on any matters relating to the city-NSMCSD in the future, or a conflict of interest will develop, according to City Atty. Albert Polonsky.

Two members of the NSMCSD board of Directors are also on the council — Mayor McRobert Stewart and Anthony Giammona.

Hupf voted against the reappointment ntement of Giammona to the Board last April in favor of Councilman William Schumacher.

As mayor, Stewart automatically takes over as chairman of the NSMCSD Board.

King said the difference between the way the district now wants the apartments to pay, and the way he and Bakar think it should be paid is about $40,000 a year.

Daly City apartments now pay a gross sales tax like restaurants, King explained and therefore should have their wastewater treated the same way.

The matter already has been sent to the County Assessor's Office for inclusion on this year's tax rolls, a spokesman said.

But final approval of the plan has not as yet been accepted by the State Water Resources Board, the agency funding part of the project, it was explained at a recent NSMCSD meeting.

Ironically, William Chapman, or Kirker-Chapman, former city engineer who conducted an intensive study of the treatment plant expansion several years ago, has also been retained by Bakar's firm to conduct a study on water rates as they pertain to sewer service charges.

Daly City and the NSMCSD already have in effect joint ventures — in addition to the fact that two members of the council are directors of the district.

There is a joint agreement between the two agencies to study the Lake Merced-Vista Grande flood control.

This is being conducted by Robert Bernicchi, former district manager and now its consultant.

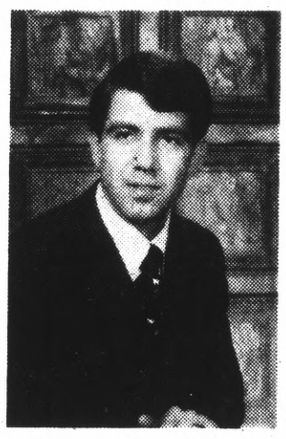
Sewers in the so-called Crocker Tract above Mission Street are also under a joint agreement between the city and district, as is the Wellington Avenue pipeline project.

Daly City recently has undertaken the job of widening the Vista Grande Channel — used by both entities.

Both the NSMCSD and Daly City even have joint health and welfare plans for their employes and use the same maintenance garage for their vehicles.

Four SSF Councilmen Face a Recall Test

Dick Battaglia



Mayor Terry Mirri

Frank Mammini

The Vigilant Voters Committee will conduct an opinion survey to determine if a majority of South San Francisco residents would sign a petition to recall four city councilmen, committee president Ron Acotsa revealed last week.

The survey is based on the July 15 council vote to build a public safety complex, despite the narrow defeat of the $4½ million bond issue to finance such a facility in the June 4 election.

Voting for the safety complex were Mayor Terry Mirri, and Councilmen Frank Mammini, Warren Steinkamp and Dick Battaglia. Councilman Leo Padreddii supported the bond issue, but voted "no" at the July 15 council meeting because, he explained, he did not wish to vote against the "will of the people."

The survey will have no legal standing, but is designed to poll the opinions of residents and to present the results to the councilmen, according to Acosta.

"It's the only way to make the council sit up and take notice," Acosta declared.

Copies of the survey will be given to members of the committee Wednesday evening, when the VVC is expected to make plans for canvassing the community.

Acosta conceded that the council's action to go ahead and build the complex was legal — "but that it still was a violation of the will of the people."

That council voted July 15 to set up a non-profit corporation, which would build the complex, then lease it back to the city, in a lease-purchase arrangement.

Funds for the lease, Acosta warned, would have to come from surplus city funds — if any — since, unlike a bond issue, the city would be unable to impose a special tax for it.

Mirri explained that he voted for the lease-purchase arrangement because the voters had shown they were overwhelmingly in favor of the complex — just not enough in favor to approve general obligation bonds. He said he is convinced that the council action was a necessity.

Westmoor Pool Behind Schedule

Completion of the half million dollar Westmoor High School swimming pool in Daly City is falling father behind schedule and contractors are fighting to keep their heads above water.

Opening of the pool was scheduled for Aug. 17 — some two weeks before the opening of school.

But to date the pool is only 86 per cent complete.

First it was the unexpected rainy weather.

Then the prime contractor — Gil-Winn Construction — had to relocate a huge fuel tank.

All these obstacles were overcome and the contractor was back on schedule, until a series of strikes struck the construction industry in recent months.

Carpenters walked off the job, which bottled up progress on the enclosed pool and schedules took yet another dive.

Even if the job is pushed, Engineer William Chapman doesn't think the time losses can be made up.

"For certain we can't open Aug. 17," Chapman said.

Garbage Strike Talks Will Begin Tomorrow

The first break in the South San Francisco Scavenger Co. strike has appeared with a negotiation meeting scheduled for tomorrow afternoon.

Negotiating will be the Employers' Council, and Teamsters Union, Local 350. It will be the first face-to-face conference to be held by the two sides since they broke up on July 30, in the face of irreconcilable demands and offers — followed by the walkout on Aug. 1.

At issue are both wages, and numerous fringe benefit proposals, including vacation and sick leave.

Meanwhile, some 1700 residents were estimated to have driven up to the Blue Line Transfer Co. on Oyster Point Boulevard in South San Francisco over the weekend to dump their garbage.

Most of the residents are now equipped with plastic garbage bags, supplied by the company. In addition, residents are taking refuse to parked garbage trucks near the Millbrae City Hall, at Westborough Park, in downtown Brisbane and on Geneva Avenue.

DC Assistant Police Chief Post Will Remain

Stories circulating throughout the Daly City Police Department in recent days that the vacant post of assistant chief of police would be abolished were finally and firmly laid to rest Thursday.

First to burst the rumor balloon was Assistant Manager Ray Letsinger who said discussion on abolishing the $23,592 per year post had been brought up during earlier budget talks at City Hall.

Letsinger would not disclose the person who brought the matter up, however The Times has learned that person was Councilman William Schumacher, a former Daly City police sergeant.

According to our sources, Schumacher wanted to know why the department could not function without the assistant chief's post, formerly held by Roy Beecher who retired several months ago.

Schumacher was unavailable for comment. He is vacationing in Hawaii.

At the time of his death in April, Police Chief Roland Petrocchi was attempting to decide which of his three senior captains — John Walsh, David Hansen or Richard Sims would get the second spot on the police roster.

When Petrocchi died, Hansen was appointed acting police chief by City manager David Rowe.

Last Friday, Hansen's permanent appointment to the top spot in the 100-person-plus department was confirmed by Rowe.

With Capt. Walsh having already announced his retirement, it was assumed Sims would be named to the second spot.

Assurances came quickly from Letsinger and Councilman Victor Kyriakis that the assistant chief's spot would not be abolished.

Chief Hansen also verified that he intended to recommend the assistant chief's position be kept open, especially in the light of today's complex administrative procedures in the law enforcement field.

"I want to make it clear," Letsinger said, "that the councilman that brought this matter before us during budget talks simply wanted to have it justified. He appeared satisfied with the explanations given."

Some cities have done away with this position while

Delegations Rap Support for 380

The proposed extension of Interstate 380 from San Bruno to Pacifica may well go down in the annals of the State Division of Transportation (CALTRANS) as the road that was never built.

Both San Bruno and Pacifica's City Councils Monday night faced delegations asking that these two cities' previous unanimous positions of favoring the extension be reconsidered.

San Bruno appears to be doing so. This comes on the eve of a planned public hearing at 7 p.m. Wednesday at Skyline College, in San Bruno, sponsored by CALTRANS to air its Environmental Impact Statement of the project.

The San Bruno Council voted to ask CALTRANS to keep open its public hearing for 45 days to allow San Bruno officials time to receive more citizen input on the project.

That input will come specifically through a report from the Peninsula Humane Society, which conducted a poll on how San Brunans feel about the proposed extension.

The city paid $1100 to include a questionnaire on the freeway issue to San Brunans in a survey the Humane Society is taking relative to such things as animal populations.

In addition to requesting the 45-day continuance, and seeking "immediate" response from the Humane Society on the outcome of the poll, the council also wants "an official" position on 380 from Pacifica's council, including a minority position, if available.

Only two persons — Charlie Young and Ralph Corral, both with the building trades — spoke in favor of the extension at the San Bruno meeting.

Corral said Pacificans are entitled to "free and easy access" to the Bay side of the Peninsula. Young said the project would improve the economy of San Bruno.

But the overwhelming majority of those in the San Bruno audience were strongly opposed to the project.

San Bruno Park School Board Trustee David Patterson said if and when it came to a vote on the school board he would have to "vote against the convenience of the extension."

He said the freeway extension would create an "echo chamber" for nearby Engvall School and possibly become an "exhaust fume collector."

Ellie Larsen, speaking on behalf of the local chapter of the Sierra Club, outlined such areas of concern as traffic volume, smog problems and the seismic hazard (the freeway would go over the San Andreas fault).

She said "a lake of carbon monoxide" would settle over the Engvall School area, and added that although the extension is "being sold" to Pacificans as an escape route in case of a disaster such as an earthquake, the CALTRANS environmental statement points out that a severe quake could damage the road.

Jim Prescott, spokesman for Safe Transportation on the Peninsula (STOP), said he had made contact with a Humane Society employe and was told residents of Portola Highlands were opposing the extension 3-1 and residents of the Crestmoor area "even stronger." He admitted the information he had was not complete.

Prescott's revelation that he had this informatimn upset Mayor Tony Governale, who said he objected to the fact Prescott was given "incomplete information that you're acting on and that we (the council) can't act on."

Noting that the present council was not in office when the freeway agreements were originally signed, Prescott said "the response of the council has never really been in favor of the people."

Opposition to the proposed extension came also from the Crestmoor Park Improvement Association Board of Directors, the Portola Highlands Homeowners Association Board, and the Rollingwood Homeowners Association Board.

Scavenger Company Boss

Stagnaro Is 'Harmonizing' Again

By JACK BIK

He used to be known around South San Francisco as the "singing garbageman."

That was before George Stagnaro became managing partner in the South San Francisco Scavenger Co. and exchanged his garbage truck for a desk.

Lately, his golden voice has been heard again, harmonizing with the clanking of garbage cans, breaking the morning stillness.

With the garbage workers on strike since Aug. 1, Stagnaro, and his 14 "working partners," have been on the trucks again.

"Mornings to me are the most beautiful thing in the world," Stagnaro declared. "They're exhilarating."

However, it wasn't easy for him to go back on the trucks, he confessed.

"I found muscles that I hadn't used in 10 or 11 years," he said, as he relaxed in his office on Linden Avenue Thursday afternoon. "It was like in an exercise class. At first, I ached all over. Now I feel fine."

Just to maintain emergency garbage service, Stagnaro and his partners are rising daily at 2 a.m. and working 16 and 17 hours, grabbing food on the run and catching an occasional catnap.

Wives and older children of the partners have been coming down to the office or meeting the trucks, to take food to the men. Wednesday, the scavenger office had a party look, with snacks and sandwiches, coffee and wine bottles spread on a table beside a refrigerator.

Mrs. Stagnaro is manning a scavenger truck parked just north of the Millbrae City Hall where she greets many of her neighbors, when they come down to deposit their garbage. The garbage truck, in fact, has become a community center, of sorts, where residents meet their neighbors and exchange the latest news.

Illustrating the gap that separates management and labor in the South San Francisco Scavenger Co. strike, Stagnaro expressed bitterness at what he regards as the union's excessive demands.

"They want me to take seven partners off the trucks. I can't do that. We would have to increase our payroll by seven persons. There is not that much administration," he said.

Pacifica Council in Split on Extension

The Pacifica City Council adjourned Monday night still supporting the proposed extension of Freeway 380 — although one councilman described the situation as a "stalemate."

The council split along the expected lines indicated by recent election of two environmentalist council members, Sid Lorvan and Janice Fulford.

On the agenda was a resolution introduced by Councilman Lorvan, and seconded by Councilwoman Fulford urging that Pacifica support:

• Construction of two lanes of Sharp Park Road north of Gypsy Hill Road (Highway Department Alternate C) and conversion of the existing Sharp Park Road to one-way eastbound.

• A state study of construction of a road having a lower profile than the proposed Route 380, to connect San Pedro Valley (Linda Mar) to Route 280 or Skyline.

Lorvan criticized the present Route 380 plans as covering with concrete "the last remaining flat area in the coastal portion of Pacifica, thus eliminating a major possible location for taxable business."

Lorvan charged that 380 would do severe environmental damage to hillside areas, inconvenience residents of Fairway Park, Vallemar and Rockaway Beach, destroy most Rockaway Beach businesses, open Pacifica's access routes to earthquake blockage, and hold up needed smaller improvements.

Councilwoman Grace McCarthy introduced a substitute resolution, reiterating the city's support of completion of 380. Under parliamentary procedure, the resolution took precedence over Lorvan's motion.

Seconded by Stan Farber, the resolution urged:

• Completion of 380 with two lanes each way and bicycle paths, as jointly agreed upon by the mayors of San Bruno and Pacifica on July 12, 1971.

• That the state study the position of the Skyline Scenic Recreation Road which would help connect the southern part of Pacifica to Route 35.

Mrs. McCarthy was mayor in 1971. She claimed that completion of the freeway is "a requirement for the development of commercial-recreational-cultural tax base." The bicycle paths would be another safety factor in time of disaster, she said.

One woman questioned Mrs. McCarthy's right to bring in a substitute motion, accusing her of a conflict of interest since Mrs. McCarthy's home is one of three which will be removed if 380 is built.

"Are you assuming I would be for selling my property or against selling my property to the state? asked Mrs. McCarthy.

Allison Luke of Fairway Park, speaking for Sane Transportation on the Peninsula, urged that Mrs. McCarthy disqualify herself from voting on all matters in regard to 380.

City Atty. John Sherman, however, declared that there was no conflict of interest.

"If the Highway Department comes along and takes your house, they have to pay you. You can't control what they pay for your house," he declared.

Paramedic Unit Captain Appointed

South San Francisco Fire Capt. William Stribreck has been appointed to head the first paramedic unit in San Mateo County, SSF Battalion Chief Jack Ehle disclosed Tuesday.

Stribeck and nine firemen will be sent to special classes at the Stanford Medical Center to train for the posts.

"We're shooting for a target date of Jan. 1, 1975," Ehle said.

The project is designed along lines for the highly successful paramedic programs of Orange and Los Angeles counties, with one major difference. To begin, at least, the nine paramedic firemen will remain fulltime firemen first, instead of being full-time paramedics first. They will receive a 5 per cent salary bonus, but the city has been saved the expense of hiring nine additional men, which would have been impossible this year, according to City Manager Ed Alario.

Only Stribeck will be assigned to fulltime paramedic work, Ehle said.

Ehle expressed hope that the program will be just the start of a county-wide system, under which emergency care can be provided in the field, by trained paramedics, working under radio direction of doctors, stationed at various hospitals.

The object is for the ambulance to be able to deliver the victim of an accident, stroke or heart attack to the hospital in stabilized condition, Ehle said.

Start of the project was assured when San Mateo County allocated $35,000 from revenúe sharing funds, followed up by an $80,806 appropriation by the South San Francisco City Council on July 30.

The city will use $16,900 to buy a specially equipped panel truck and special heart-monitoring devices.

Assistant Chief

others have added the assistant chief's post.

San Mateo has a Deputy Chief of Police to fill in during absence of the chief, while Redwood City elected to abolish the post several years ago.

According to two councilmen contacted, the assistant chief's post will not be written off the books.

Instead, the matter of recommending an assistant will be left up to Chief Hansen following necessary written and oral examinations.

Last month, Capt. Walsh announced his retirement from the department to assume a teaching position at the College of San Mateo.

This left Hansen and Sims to step into the chief's spot.

After an extensive oral examination, administered by two city managers and a chief of police — all from outside communities — Rowe appointed Hansen.

Both Sims and Hansen are graduates of the FBI Academy.

Bike Accident Kills Youth, 8

An eight-year-old Millbrae boy died Monday after the bicycle he was riding sped down a hill and smashed into a parked pickup truck near the youth's home.

Millbrae police identified the victim as Gregory Bitners, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonids Bitners, 1160 Tuolumne Drive.

The youth — who suffered head injuries in the accident — was rushed to Peninsula Hospital at 5:30 p.m. He died later in the hospital's intensive care unit at 9:50 p.m.

Investigating Millbrae police said the boy was riding his one-speed bicycle down a hill on Tuolumne Drive when the bicycle chain suddenly broke loose. With the chain dislodged, the youth had no means to brake his bicycle.

Picketing At City Hall

Pickets manned by striking scavenger company employes paraded in front of the South San Francisco City Hall Monday and today — but all city employes remained at their jobs.

The pickets were Teamsters Union, Local 350 members currently striking the South San Francisco Scavenger Co. Their signs proclaimed their picketing of the City Hall as "informational only."

Some half-dozen pickets passed out letters to passers-by, charging the scavenger firm with failing to "recognize our needs under the present high cost of living situation."

The pickets stressed job security as a major issue. They claimed the union is trying to get language in their contract that will "control our employers from giving our jobs away." "We will be satisfied to include language that will not allow our employer to go outside and rent equipment with other drivers. We feel he is entitled to rent, lease or buy trucks, but we also feel that the personnel operating this equipment should be us, the workers at this company."

They apologized to citizens for the inconvenience caused by the strike, but said, "we are confident that you (residents) will understand our position."

The letters charged that "the company feels that the longer they keep us out (the better) they will be able to beat us down. They will not — ("we feel we are right in trying to obtain a fair salary for our families) and we will stay out until we are able to do so."

JESD Tax Override Election Held Off

A possible tax override election for the Jefferson Elementary School District originally planned for the November ballot will now be held off until March, it was revealed by the Board of Trustees Aug. 7.

That action came at a meeting in which the school board also adopted an $11,124,297 budget for 1974-75.

Business Manager John Lynch said the school tax rate will drop 23 cents to $3.54 per $100 assessed valuation.

The budget contains a six per cent salary increase for all classified and certified staff. Jim Cannon, chairman of the Certificated Employees Council and spokesman for the teachers in their salary negotiations, said they were now aiming for an 8.5 per cent pay hike. Cannon hoped for a final settlement soon, possibly even this week. The teachers had first asked for a 12.75 per cent increase.

Lynch said any pay boost now would come from the $354,853 contingency fund, though the board has held fast to keep at least a $300,000 reserve from that fund for any unexpected emergency expenditures during the year.

The budget also includes a longevity recognition for classified personnel, which would pay additional income to employes based on years of service. At the completion of the tenth through the fifteenth year of employment, they would receive an additional $15 per month; from the fifteenth to twentieth year $30 per month; and $45 for over 20 years service.

The decision to attempt to push for a tax increase for the March 4 election was made after the Trustees agreed they needed more time to get the measure prepared and to gather community support for it.

The board has formed a Citizens Tax Election Advisory Committee to study the district's financial situation and prepare the campaign for the proposition.

At the suggestion of board member Al Schwarzbach, the trustees set the first week of October as the deadline for the board to add more names to the committee. After that, the committee could include names at its discretion.

The deadline for filing to put a measure on the March 4 ballot is Jan. 5.

Lynch has not forecasted the effect of an override election on the tax rate. However, he has said the revenue base should rise to $242 per student. Without the tax increase, the school district would be faced with a whopping deficit and cutbacks in programs.

Pay for JESD Trustees Debated

The Jefferson Elementary School District Trustees are considering a proposal that could make it easier for citizens of lower income groups to serve on the board.

The proposal, introduced by Trustee David Parker at the Aug. 7 meeting, would reimburse all board members $20 for each meeting. It would also restore a payment to the Personnel Commission members of $15 a meeting.

State legislation allows the board members to be reimbursed at a sum not to exceed $120 a month and members of the commission not to exceed $75 a month.

Parker pointed out that high expenses incurred by trustees discourage people from lower income families from running for the school board. Parker termed the $20 per meeting as "a small portion of the cost of serving on the board.

"If we are going to attract people from a lower economic class, we should consider not to put any restrictions on them," Parker said.

Trustee Beverly Forrester seemed to support the idea, saying she has spent up to $200 a month for board-related activities, including phone calls, meetings and conferences. "I could see the lower income person who could not afford to serve," Mrs. Forrester said, adding that a "lot of families don't have the $200 a month."

Parker said the cost of campaigning for the board runs from $500 to $1,000.

The plan, though, was blasted by Trustee Al Schwarzbach, who called the funding a "miscarriage of responsibility as long as we are strapped for funds. It would be a great mistake . . . for someone to run with the idea that they would be reimbursed.

"Potential reimbursement should not be the reason for a person running for the board," Schwarzbach said.

The board finally decided to further study the proposal, and place it on the next agenda.

Board members can't be reimbursed now unless the trustees vote to authorize the funds. The trustees were reimbursed only $21.75 for expenses for all five members last year.

Mrs. Forrester said the Personnel Commission received the funds until last year, but that the board withdrew the payment because of overspending.

In other action, the Trustees:

—Awarded a contract of $79,272 to repair roofing at Colma Elementary ($29,186) and Colma Intermediate ($50,086) schools to the Ace Roofing Co.

—Approved the offering of contracts of the next three teachers on the rehire list — Susan Pyle, Dennis Klein, and Linda Won; and accepted resignations from teachers Elaine Kelmmer, Douglas Whited, and Karl Ting.

Harbor District Remains

Stung four years ago when it pushed for dissolution of the San Mateo County Harbor District, the County Board of Supervisors voted 4 to 1 Thursday to reject the latest attempt at dissolution.

The action came after a day-long hearing during which 30 speakers expressed their views on the matter. Woodside Councilwoman Olive Mayer asked board members to reveal whether they had received campaign contributions from members of the Harbor Commission. Joseph D. "Joss" Cooney again was ejected from a board meeting.

Board Chairwoman Jean Fassler was the lone dissenter as the board approved Supervisor Robert St. Clair's motion that the recommendation of the Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) for dissolution of the harbor district be rejected.

Thus, the matter of dissolution will not appear on the ballot in the Nov. 5 general election. Should the board have approved the dissolution, the matter again would have had to be placed before the electorate, which rejected a dissolution proposal in November, 1970.

Action on petitions of six cities and four special districts for withdrawal from the harbor district remain in limbo pending a court decision on a suit by the district seeking to halt the withdrawals on the basis that LAFCO failed to prepare an environmental impact report on the withdrawal actions.

In prefacing his motion, St. Clair refuted the "inference that the electorate in 1970 was misinformed and had made a mistake."

"To impose our will over a public voice would be an easy position to take," St. Clair stated. "For us to supersede a public mandate at this time would be ludicrous. We should accept the vote of the people as final, as I have personally (he was defeated for re-election in the June primary election), and let the district continue in the hands of the Harbor Commission."

Supervisor William H. Royer, seconding the motion, said he had heard no evidence that the Board of Supervisors could operate the district (development of Pillar Point Harbor north of Half Moon Bay) better than the Board of Harbor Commissioners.

Pacifica Hires New Engineer

Appointment of a new assistant city engineer was announced last week by Pacifica City Manager Dave Thompson.

The new official, Frank Charles Erbacher, 32, of Tarzana, will assist City Engineer Norman C. Rubel.

Erbacher received his engineering degree from the California State University at Northridge and completed graduate courses at Long Beach State University.

He was employed by the Los Angeles County Road Department since July, 1966. He rose to supervising civil engineer 1, and was in charge of preparing traffic engineering studies.

He is married and has three children. He expects to report to work Sept. 1.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed that Alvin Holman, formerly appointed as associate planner, has accepted another position, leaving the three-man planning division with just Planning Administrator James Miller.

Planning Technician James Norton announced his resignation last week.

Disneyland Trip Planned

The Daly City Recreation Department is sponsoring a trip to Disneyland for high school teens Aug. 17 and 18. Chartered buses will leave Daly City at approximately 1 a.m. Saturday and return at 9 a.m. Sunday after a day at the Magic Kingdom.

Cost for the trip is $26 and includes transportation, admission and tickets, a breakfast and insurance.

Those interested should contact the Recreation Office at 992-5356. Deadline for signups is Aug. 14.

Tax Reduction Seen

Jefferson High District OK's Budget

The Jefferson Union High School District Board of Trustees adopted a general fund budget of $13,777,321 for the 1974-75 school year Tuesday night.

And in another matter, the school board was accused of not cooperating in establishing an Affirmative Action Program for the district.

Supt. Edward Morgan estimated the budget will reflect at least a 10 cents per $100 of assessed valuation tax reduction in the school district. Morgan said he couldn't state what the tax rate will be because the district has not received the operative tax figure or the final adjusted assessed valuation.

Besides the general fund, the board also approved a $288,553 special reserve fund, a $4,228,706 bond building fund, and a $453,728 cafeteria fund account.

The general fund budget reflected an increase over the Publication budget of $411,165 due to the inclusion of federal and state projects, an increase in district tax income, reduction in driver training revenue, and an estimated increase in the interest income earned by the district.

As for affirmative action, the criticism of the board occurred when citizens were allowed to give their views on the progress of formulating the program.

The trustees had approved a policy statement July 16, which in effect expressed the school district's desire to develop an Affirmative Action Program.

The citizens spoke after the board decided to hold a special study session Sept. 24 in which members of the community, including school employes, will be urged to discuss the various components of the program.

Julius Castelon of the citizens-teachers committee, which was formed by some members of the community to work for affirmative action, criticized the board, saying, "It's about time you respect our rights and that it seems you still don't think we represent the community." Castelon has been a consistent critic of the board in previous meetings on the subject.

Another committee member, Jose Aguilar, claimed, "The board fails to realize the citizens-teachers committee's competency. If the district is not willing to accept our recommendations, then what do you propose to do that is fair to our people?"

Accept our recommendations, then what do you propose to do that is fair to our people?

Another conflict centered on whether there should be a full-time Affirmative Action Officer hired to implement the program. The board eliminated, by a 4-1 vote, a section in the policy statement which said it could be necessary to have such a position. Trustee Ruth Boudinot cast the lone vote in favor of an officer.

"It may seem like a delay, but it is just the element of time," Sloane said. "We hope to get the program through."

Stowaway--'One in a Million'

Two Pacifica youngsters stowed away aboard two airliners for a trip to Hawaii recently in an incident that officials describe as "one in a million" and hope it won't happen again.

The kids were able to do it partly because of a delayed plane at Los Angeles Airport, airline officials say.

PSA spokesman Paul Cavallo in San Diego said:

"What we will do is tighten our security and gate procedures a little.

"It's up to the local station managers, but we won't let our ticket and gate agents relax so much."

United Airline spokesman Marden Leaver said the kids were apparently able to slip aboard a UAL plane to Hawaii, once they reached Los Angeles, because the island-bound plane had been delayed three hours on the ground.

"There was a great deal of getting on and getting off" he said, because the delay occurred after the plane's initial loading.

"We haven't got a definitive explanation," he said, "but there was a great deal of confusion around that boarding gate and we assume our people thought they were children who had already boarded with their parents.

"The very fact that they are so young, played in their favor. The assumption is that they attached themselves to older people who could seem to be their parents.

"Another question that is elemental, is whether they wanted to go to Hawaii, or just boarded a plane?"

Leaver said "advisories will undoubtedly go out to our station personnel to watch out" for this sort of behavior.

He commented that a flight attendant had spotted the youngsters, sitting in a lounge area once the plane was in flight, and asked about their tickets or boarding passes.

The children said the boarding passes had been taken from them at the gate, he said.

When asked where their parents were, they waved vaguely toward the rear of the plane, and then began a long conversation about going to Hawaii to visit their sister.

It was this same flight attendant, escorting the youngsters to their alleged sister after the plane landed in Hawaii, who reported them as stowaways, he said.

Teachers Warn Of SSF Chaos

South San Francisco teacher representatives, warned that chaos would result if the disputed salary package is not accepted soon, agreed to inform the school district's Board of Trustees by Friday of the possibility of polling their members before school begins Sept. 5.

The plan to have members of the Certificated Employees Council and the Classroom Teachers Association polled on their feelings of the proposed pact was suggested by Board President John Dillon. Other trustees joined in pleading to CTA President Barbara Olds and CEC Vice Chairman Betty Avila to accept the board's proposal.

"We need to know one way or another," Dillon said. "We can't implement anything now; it's all out the window if we don't agree by Sept. 5."

And Trustee James Christensen said, "There will be a lot of chaos if we don't get some type of direction."

See Related Story Page 20

Although Dillon said the district would finance the poll, both Ms. Olds and Ms. Avila at first said such a survey could not be taken until all the teachers return in September, since many were still on vacation.

Ms. Avila added, "The teachers have not changed their position since they voted against the first offer in June."

School District Board Decision

SSF Voters to be Asked to Okay Tax Hike

The South San Francisco Unified School Board decided Aug. 5 to ask voters to approve a tax hike of up to 50 cents in the Nov. 5 election.

That decision came after the board adopted the 1974-75 budget of $17,747,634.

The decision on the tax increase request culminated a one-month study by a special Community Finance Study Committee, established by the board to analyze and report on the situation. That committee recommended a tax election not to exceed 51 cents.

The 50-cent request, if passed by a majority of the voters, will be carried over the next few years. Associate Supt. Joseph Smith said there will be a 51-cent tax reduction this year and estimated a 12-cent drop in 1975-76 if there is no tax rate increase. It would be up to the board to decide how much of the 50-cent tax to levy each year.

The district's previous tax election increase, approved by the voters in 1963, was for 70 cents spread over an eight-year period.

A successful election would raise the revenue limit — the amount that can be spent per student by approximately $90, to $1,200.

Smith said the cost of the election to the district would be about $4,000.

It also was indicated that proposed state legislation (the Dill Bill) possibly could disallow the tax increase, even if approved. That bill includes a section that would prohibit any such school tax election, effective Jan. 1, 1975.

Smith said Deputy Dist. Atty. Lee Port, who represents the district, has given the opinion that the bill would not affect a measure on this November's ballot. In any event, it is likely that this could be the last chance to request a tax increase.

The Community Finance Committee submitted its findings prior to the board's tax vote. Its other recommendations, besides the tax increase, were:

—A financial study committee shold be continued. Committee chairwoman Valerie Lambertson said the community input was important, and that more time was needed to further study the financial picture. However, Board President John Dillon said it was the policy of the trustees not to have a standing committee.

—The board should conduct a written survey to determine the public's priorities.

—The district should encourage legislation adjusting the built-in factors for state financial support in accordance with the cost of living index.

—Actual need should be analyzed before continuing employment is offered for all employees.

Although the board was ready to vote to request a tax increase, there was a question of how much it would ask for.

Smith said a minimum of 35 cents was needed "so we could get ourselves through."

The board decided it might as well ask for all 50 cents, but not before discussing the need for cooperation of school district personnel and parents. "All the district employes will have to be salesmen for this," Trustee Thomas Henkle said.

Supt. Paul Nielsen allayed fears that the teachers would use class time to encourage the children to tell their parents to support the proposition. "Our duty is to present the facts, not to make you vote for it," Nielsen said.

Manager of San Bruno Card Room Is Arrested

What has been termed by San Bruno police as a "major receipt and distribution of stolen property operation" was uncovered last Wednesday afternoon with the arrest of a cardroom manager.

Booked on suspicion of receiving stolen property was Dennis Allen Pratt, 30, of Concord, who recently became cardroom manager at The Club, 677 San Mateo Ave.

Police, acting on a search warrant issued by South San Francisco Municipal Court Judge Charles Becker said they found "several thousand dollars" in stolen property at about 3 p.m. Wednesday at The Club.

Included in the find were rifles and shotguns, a pistol, numerous items of jewelry and a large quantity of televisions and stereo equipment. All property identified had originally been stolen from cities in Contra Costa County, police said.

Police said they were led to The Club when an anonymous informant was arrested in Concord for burglary. His statements, police said, and the investigation of the Concord, Walnut Creek and Contra Costa County Sheriff's Departments resulted in the issuance of the search warrant.

"Due to the large quantity of property involved, it is felt that Pratt was acting as a major 'fence' for the distribution of stolen property," stated the police report.

Pratt was released on $5,000 bail. Arraignment was set for 9 a.m. Aug. 19 at South San Francisco Municipal Court.

"NOTHING TAKES THE PLACE OF LEATHER"

Answers to Frequent Questions

Q. Why are some leathers more expensive than others?

A. Quality leathers are expensive because they have so many hidden details. They are made with choice, top grade skins; the pick of the packs. Each garment is matched and cut by hand to assure perfect color blending, uniformity of weight and texture. Other differences in QUALITY garments are the interlinings, reinforced tapes at stress points, seams that are both stitched and cemented, hand pressings at every single stage. These ensure better shape, better fit and lasting wear.

Q. What about cleaning? Isn't that expensive, too?

A. No. Cleaning costs compare favorably with costs for fine woolens. Since spots, stains and surface soil wash right off, cleaning shouldn't be necessary more than once a year. So, leather is actually less expensive to maintain.

Q. Is leather water-repellent?

A. Yes. The special finishes added to the skins during the tanning process make it resist water. When a leather garment gets wet, just hang it up to dry.

Q. What season is best for leather?

A. Leather is comfortable all year 'round. Its hundreds of tiny pores keep the weather out and let the air in. It breathes, making it ideal for any climate.

Q. Isn't leather perishable?

A. Smooth grain leather is hardy, husky and always stays handsome. Connoisseurs feel that it improves with age. All it needs is a little understanding and a little care to provide years of lasting wear.

Q. Why should I buy a leather garment?

A. Because real grain leather is so fashionable, yet at the same time so practical. Fashionable for the natural elegance that's virtually a status symbol. Practical for its travel-wise hardiness . . . it's easy self-care . . . its long life that makes it such a value.

Papan, Rodli and Proposition 9

Campaign Agreement May Collapse

A tentative agreement between candidates to follow Proposition 9 guidelines in the race for San Mateo County's 19th District State Assembly seat, may be falling apart.

Incumbent Assemblyman Louis J. Papan, D-Daly City, and his challenger, Gilbert Rodli Jr., R-Burlingame, had made the voluntary and tentative agreement despite the fact that Proposition 9 will not become law until 1975 and after the upcoming November general election.

"People are fed up with politics as usual and have demanded major changes," said Rodli, referring to overwhelming San Mateo County voter approval of Proposition 9 which sets stringent rules for campaign fund disclosures and expenditures.

"I certainly agree that our campaigns should be conducted in the spirit of Proposition 9," Papan said in a written response to Rodli. "Even though the initiative will not be implemented officially until next year.

Rodli charged this week, however, that Papan has broken his Proposition 9 pledge because his office sent a newsletter to households in the 19th Assembly District last week.

The newsletter, entitled "A Report to the People" is a routine information document authorized by the state assembly. Rodli noted that such documents, mailed at public expense, are forbidden by Proposition 9 once an incumbent has filed for reelection.

Rodli further charged that Assemblyman Papan's newsletter is actually a blatant piece of campaign literature.

Papan responded that the people who received the newsletter can make their own judgment — the newsletter lists assembly appointments and pending bills, along with a four-page recreation guide which lists public parks, beaches and historical sites in San Mateo County.

"I intend to continue communications with my constituents," said Papan. "If he (Rodli), feels that way, we would like him to specifically state what he objects to."

The assemblyman's Administrative Assistant Dan Howle noted that Papan's staff started work on the newsletter "three or four months ago," well before Rodli suggested that the two candidates follow Proposition 9 guidelines.

Howle added that Papan's staff "worked hard to make sure it (the newsletter) was not political" and said the newsletter's contents were approved by an assembly rules committee.

Exactly what effect the mailed newsletter will have on Papan and Rodli's previous and tentative agreement remains to be seen. Both candidates indicated, however, that their campaign managers will soon meet to iron out voluntary Proposition 9 ground rules for their candidates to follow.

There is also a note of irony in the controversy — both Papan and Rodli were at first opposed to Proposition 9. "My concern was that it (Proposition 9) was a deliberate attempt to circumvent the legislature," said Papan. "Much of Proposition 9 was already law."

Rodli commented, "I was opposed to Proposition 9 because 75 per cent of the proposed measure was already law."

After the overwhelming approval of Proposition 9, however, both Papan and Rodli apparently cast off their previous opposition to the measure and have now agreed to volunarily follow guidelines set in the 22,000-word initiative.

"We have both agreed to follow Proposition 9," said Rodli, but he added that he and Papan have not yet "agreed to specifics."

Proposition 9 limits campaign expenditures for persons seeking statewide executive office such as the governor and attorney general, but the measure "does not limit the total campaign expenditures of legislative candidates," said Rodli.

Nevertheless, Rodli has suggested that both he and Papan limit their campaign expenditures to no more than 20 cents per each of the approximately 120,000 registered voters in the 19th Assembly District which covers North San Mateo County.

Should the two agree to the limit, their total campaign expenditures would be limited to about $23,000, Rodli said.

Papan commented that Rodli's 20-cents-per-voter suggestion seemed "rather high" but added that Proposition 9 sets "no limit" for legislative candidates' expenditures "so that leaves it open."

Rodli's campaign expenditures for the Republican party nomination prior to the June ballot totaled $3,915.

Assemblyman Papan, who ran unopposed for Democratic party nomination for the 19th District Assembly seat, listed slightly higher campaign expenditures which totaled $4,410.

His wife, Helen Marie Vidrine, 38, 1048 Granada Drive, was free today on $10,000 bail.

Flournoy Speaks to Social Science Pupils

More than 500 social science students at El Camino High School's Little Theore Aug. 6 heard State Controller Houston I. Flournoy, who is campaigning for governor.

"It wasn't my intention to make a career of being state controller," he told the South San Francisco students, expaining why he was running. "I wanted to be in a position where I could more readily determine policy."

He answered a few questions, but was quickly whisked away for appearances in San Francisco.

Flournoy said he did not favor decriminalization of marijuana. He also said he opposed a ban on alcohol.

Other questions ranged from women's rights to Watergate.

His aides distributed questionaires among the students asking how his address can be improved.

His appearance was part of a summer program of social science teacher Lynn Lewis.

"We changed the curriculum," she said, "to learn government first hand. We've had people from the Arab and Israeli consulates, BART, City Manager Ed Alario, Sen. Arlen Gregorio and Congressman Leo J. Ryan. We are asking Gerry Brown, the Democratic nominee for governor, to come."

Students appeared awed by television crews clustered around the stage.

Equal Opportunity Commission Told

'County Losing War on Poverty'

Speaker after speaker paraded before the county's economic opportunity commission Thursday night to portray the county's often losing war on poverty.

The battles to provide adequate nutrition and health services from unborn babies to the elderly poor was reported to commission members at their meeting in the multi-purpose room of county department of public health and welfare building in San Mateo.

Edward R. Becks, executive director of the EOC, said even though the Head Start program for pre-school aged children is losing money each year, so far the EOC has been able to maintain its original program, and is talking about a program of the same level during the coming year.

Part of the difficulty, according to Becks, is the federal government's revenue sharing with local governmental agencies, which has fragmented previously coordinated programs.

Mrs. Dolores Randall, commission chairman, placed part of the blame on the board of supervisors, which she charged with changing its mind all the time. This, she told the commission, has caused "an upheaval" in many programs.

In addition, Becks reported, local programs are being pushed too soon by the state at a time when there is a need for more community input and planning.

Mrs. Allison Glickman, director of the Head Start program, said a county-wide budget of $154,087 must provide for 120 children.

Moses Guillory, a commissioner from Daly City, reported that there are not enough children in the program in his city, but Becks pointed out that the program has always been underfunded in San Mateo County, especially in San Mateo and Redwood City. He said all funds available are put into actual services and are not used for administrative costs.

Commissioner Maria Luna, also of Daly City, reported there are 500 on a waiting list for a nutritional program for women, infants and children, which provides fresh eggs, milk, cereal and orange juice for expectant and nursing mothers in Daly City.

Mrs. Selma Bascara, an EOC staff member, reported applicants must take blood tests to determine eligibility and must be from "target areas" where the poor live. Statistics, she said, show now me that many have insufficient diets.

Mrs. Bascara reported the new program is aimed at four areas — Redwood City, Pacifica, Daly City and Half Moon Bay, where the need is the greatest.

The program is especially good, Mrs. Randall said, because coupons given the young and expectant mothers do not result in deductions from their welfare checks.

Mrs. Betty Plank, director of a Senior Citizens program, said 50 per cent of the program is aimed at supportive social services to provide companionship and to return the elderly to the "mainstream of society." Actually, she said, it would be cheaper to give a person $1 for a meal, but this would not accomplish the main goals of the program.

A new South San Francisco site at St. Paul's Methodist Church at 500 Newark has been selected as a new center for the aged, Mrs. Plank reported.

To be eligible for the program, a person must be 60 years or older, although his spouse may be of any age. It is assumed, Mrs. Plank said, that many citizens over 60 are unemployed.

The program now has five centers — in Redwood City, East Palo Alto, San Mateo, Daly City and now South San Francisco.

An application for $69,882 to operate an Emergency Food and Medical Services program was cut to $40,000, Becks reported.

Becks reported that the South San Francisco Information Center, where those in need may obtain information where to get needed help, has been taken over by the city and is no longer connected with the EOC, although he has been meeting with the director to offer assistance.

Commissioner Esther Talaver complained that many people feel they are being deprived of services at the center, and newly appointed Commissioner Juan Torres of South San Francisco said because of staff firings the center's employes do not know if they will have a job tomorrow.

"The city is pretty much out of step," Torres asserted.

Mrs. Randall said, "There is a lot of concern about the South San Francisco area."

Mrs. Luna reported South San Francisco poor come to Daly City and "say to us they get nothing in South San Francisco."

Commissioner James L. Frear of San Mateo objected that because San Mateo contracts with a private concessionaire for food at its center for the elderly, its clients are not getting as good meals as they could if the county provided food from a central commissary.

Protests Halt Moose Hall

Neighborhood protests managed to stop a Moose Hall in Linda Mar, at last week's Pacifica Planning Commission. A long-sought skating rink, as well as a quarry use permit renewal for the Rockaway Quarry, were approved.

Protesters showed petitions with 120 names, objecting to the proposal to convert a Baptist church to use by the Pacifica Moose Lodge. The lodge was requesting amendment of the Pacifica General Plan to convert the lot from low-density residential use to commercial recreation.

The lot is located at 1450 Perez Drive, at the foot of Montara Mountain. Planner James Miller had recommended denial of the application on the basis that it would constitute "a spot designation," it would be incompatible with surrounding homes, and would produce a traffic problem.

Increase in County Budget

A final 1974-75 San Mateo County budget of $139,990,927, up less than one per cent over last year, was adopted Aug. 7 by the Board of Supervisors.

County Manager M. D. Tarshes said it appears that the property tax rate will drop approximately 5 cents, from $1.97 per $100 of assessed valuation to $1.92.

The tax rate will not be set until near the end of this month after the assessed valuation of the public utilities within the county is received from the State Board of Equalization and outside revenue estimates are confirmed.

The new county budget is up by $1,151,363 over last year, an increase of eight-tenths of one per cent.

However, the amount to be raised by property taxes has increased by approximately five per cent, a result, Tarshes pointed out, of inflationary increases in costs of supplies and equipment and salary increases to employes.

"It is astonishing that we have a less than one per cent increase," the county manager commented.

He noted that the overall budget is up only a comparatively small amount because of the bookkeeping transfer of some welfare appropriations directly to the state and federal governments, rather than having the funds from those sources allocated through the county and carried as part of the county budget.

Tarshes reported that the nearly $140 million budget figure represents the amount to be raised countywide and subject to the property tax rate.

With the inclusion of the county library budget in the unincorporated area and some cities, plus fire protection for some portions of the unincorporated area through a contract with the State Division of Forestry, the overall budget figure totals $143,244,150, a 1.2 per cent increase over last year's $141,455,307.

Property owners subject to the library tax will be paying an additional 3½ cents in library tax for an estimated 25 cents, Tarshes said.

The anticipated increase in the library tax is due, he reported, to inflation and the transfer of some capital improvement projects to the library budget from the overall county budget.

McCloskey, Ryan React to Resignation

The two congressmen who represent San Mateo County have both expressed a sense of relief over the resignation of former President Richard Nixon.

Paul McCloskey, R-Palo Alto, and Leo Ryan, D-San Mateo, say that they believe the country can come together under the leadership of President Gerald Ford and his administration.

McCloskey, a staunch foe of Nixon and the first member of Congress to call for his impeachment three years ago, said, "I have a tremendous amount of faith in Jerry Ford. This could be an exciting time, There is a lot to do. The new administration has two years now to show the kind of performance that will be accountable in 1976."

McCloskey was generally pleased about the staggering turn of events last week which created the conditions for Thursday night's announcement by Nixon.

"People are actually smiling around Washington now and we haven't seen much of that around here lately," he said.

"I personally feel more of a sense of relief than vindication. It has been a very sad chapter for the Republican Party. We need two strong parties in this country. We had to purge ourselves."

Ryan was a bit more guarded in his enthusiasm.

"I think the country is willing to accept Ford," he said. "But there are some tremendous problems backed up right now in this country, among them the problem of this terrible rate of inflation which is destroying the ability of millions of Americans to live decent lives."

For Ryan, a most important aspect of the recent events in Washington was "the impressive and lifting knowledge that this old Constitution of ours is remarkably tough and resilient. The fact is that the system does work. This ought to be an inspiration for the rest of the world."

And what about the possibility of granting immunity for Nixon on the charge of obstruction of justice?

According to McCloskey, there is a movement among some in Congress to couple immunity for the former President with a general blanket decree of amnesty for those young men who avoided the draft during the American war effort in Vietnam.

The decree might also include some persons charged with certain minor crimes.

"The question is," McCloskey explained, "how much leniency can we afford to grant just one man. There ought to be one standard of justice for all. There is a distinct feeling that you can't provide one man with a special favor."

McCloskey added that, "No one here wants to be punitive toward the man (Nixon). No one wants him to go to jail for ten years. There is just a vast sense of relief that he is gone."

Said Ryan, "For practical purposes, Congress would be well advised to drop the whole subject. I don't think there is anything that the Congress ought to do about the judicial process. Remember, we are not talking about just the Watergate individuals but their families as well. A lot of people have been severely hurt by all this."

Both Ryan and McCloskey noted that Congress has asserted itself in an impressive fashion this summer.

"In the last couple of months, the Congress has started to do a job," said McCloskey.

"There is a new sense of obligation in the Congress. There is a desire to reverse this whole series of negative events."

After listening to Nixon's speech Thursday night, Ryan stated that, "I thought the talk was sentimental, personal and a little unrealistic. He seemed to suffer from a lapse of memory on the reasons why all this had to be.

"Still, he went out in a style and with a grace which was in keeping with the nature of the job."

Group Protests 380 Extension

A group of children — bearing signs, some wearing gas masks — lined up across the Engvall Intermediate School field in a demonstration against the proposed construction of Freeway 380 Saturday afternoon.

At a signal from their leader, they waved their signs and yelled repeatedly: "Stop 380!"

The protest was designed to start off a week of demonstrations against the project. Members of STOP (Sane Transportation on the Peninsula) will appear at tonight's meetings of the San Bruno and Pacifica City Councils to try to induce councilmen to withdraw their freeway agreements with the state.

Wednesday night, STOP members hope to show state representatives at a 7 p.m. hearing at Skyline College that local residents do not want the freeway at all.

The Saturday demonstration was under leadership of Jim Prescott of San Bruno and Ron Bacon of Pacifica.

The protest appeared to be staged largely for the benefit of the Bay Area television stations, whose cameramen and newsmen were out in force.

Children were photographed playing skip-rope, wearing gas masks and earmuffs, to illustrate the pollution that the freeway extension would bring.

The line of children, Bacon told newsmen, showed how wide the freeway would be. According to plans, the freeway would cut through the Crestmoor Canyon, between Engvall Intermediate School and Crestmoor Elementary School.

Bacon addressed the group, charging that the freeway extension was a "politicians' scheme to open the hills and the coast for development," at the expense of the present residents, who would suffer noise and air pollution and destruction of their open space and natural surroundings.

Colma Creek Contract Set

A contract for the construction of a bridge across Colma Creek at Spruce Avenue in South San Francisco at a cost of $740,830 was awarded Aug. 6 by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors.

County engineers said the bridge will be the first project under control of the new Colma Creek Flood Control Project.

Winning the contract on a low bid was Future Construction Company of Dublin.

The Board of Supervisors approved an $8 million project last week for a flood control project on Colma Creek from the bay to Mission Road in South San Francisco.

Supervisors Endorse Regional Planning Agency

Proposed legislation to establish a Bay Area regional planning agency was endorsed by a 4 to 1 vote of the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors Aug. 6.

The legislation, known as Assembly Bill 2040 sponsored by Assemblyman John Knox, D., Contra Costa County, would consolidate five single-purpose planning agencies for the nine Bay Area counties into a single Bay Area Regional Planning Agency over a period of the next four years.

Under the suggested timing, the Association of Bay Area Governments (ABAG) would immediately be reconstituted as the Bay Area Planning Agency.

By no later than July 1, 1976, the Metropolitan Transportation Commission (MTC) and the Bay Area Sewer Service Agency (BASSA) would be incorporated in the new agency.

As soon as practicable after Jan. 1, 1977, but no later than Jan. 1, 1979, the Bay Conservation and Development Commission (BCDC) and the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District (BAAPC) would be included.

Angelo J. Siracusa, executive director of the San Francisco Bay Area Council, and Revan A. F. Tranter, executive director of ABAG, both appeared before the Board of Supervisors Tuesday to urge affirmative action in support of the legislation.

"Don't look on this as an erosion of (local) powers," Siracusa told the board. "It is a way to bring existing layers of regional government activity into a comprehensive program."

The new agency would inherit all of the powers of the existing agencies, he stated.

The possible alternative to a comprehensive agency, Siracusa warned, could be the "stronger growth" of state and federal powers on the local level.

Siracusa noted that under the existing system someone preparing an environmental impact report affecting the various agencies has to go through the time consuming process of seeking individual agency approval.

It is hoped that under a single agency that a single body would make the decision, he said.

Initially, the agency board would be comprised of 34 members appointed on the basis of population. Counties with less than 300,000 population would have two members; between 300,000 and 600,000 (San Mateo County), four members, and over 600,000, six members.

The members, serving until July 1, 1976, would be selected from among supervisors, mayors and city councilmen. In San Mateo County, two members would be appointed by the Board of Supervisors and two members named by the city selection committee (County Council of Mayors).

After July 1, 1976, the membership of the agency board would increase to 50 members.

Twenty-five members would be selected from among supervisors, mayors and councilmen in a manner to be determined by the initial agency board, but providing that each county is allotted a minimum of one city and one county representative.

Twenty-five members would be directly elected for four-year terms from districts to be determined by the agency board.

After Jan. 1, 1980, the board composition could be changed by initiative.

The new agency would be required to prepare, adopt, regularly review and revise a regional plan containing at least four elements:

—An environmental quality plan for the management and control of air and water quality resources of the region.

—A transportation plan for the development and management of an integrated regional transportation system.

—A land use plan indicating on a regional basis the amount, distribution and general location of various regionally significant categories of land use, such as agricultural, commercial, industrial, parklands, residential, recreational and open space.

—A resource management plan for the conservation, development and management of the regional resources of the region, including forests, rivers, soils, fish, wildlife and other natural resources.

DC Bank Reports Earnings

First National Bank of Daly City reported second quarter earnings of $95,707, or 59 cents a share, up from $70,356, or 45 cents a share, a year ago.

First-half results increased over 30 per cent to $165,232, or $1.02 per share, from $126,879, or 81 cents a share on fewer shares outstanding, last year.

Deposits of this San Mateo County six office independent banking system totaled $30.8 Million on June 30, vs. $27.8 Million a year earlier. Loans were $17.6 Million, vs $16.6 Million.

The bank attributes its rapid growth, according to President Charles K. Turner, to its 52 hour per week extended banking service and a high liquid cash ratio which has allowed the continued funding of loans in an area hard pressed for consumers, business and real estate funds.

Appeal Rejected

The State Court of Appeal Wednesday refused to set aside the bribery indictment of Matteo V. Fasanaro, former assistant superintendent of business affairs for San Mateo Community Dollege District.

The three-member court also denied a petition which, in essence, sought release of what has been termed the "first" San Mateo County Grand Jury transcript.

The action also denied the appeal of Brian Selph of Foster City, one of the four former Litton Business Telephone Systems executives indicted along with Fasanaro last fall on charges of bribery and related crimes.

The case stems from the awarding of a $593,000 contract by the college board of trustees to Litton last year.

San Mateo County Superior Court Judge Gerald E. Ragan three times has had to delay the setting of trial for Fasanaro and three of the other defendants pending the ruling by the Court of Appeal. A stay of proceedings against Fasanaro and Selph had been granted pending a decision.

Fasanaro's attorney, Lois Scampini, said she received word of the court's decision this morning. She said no reasons for the denial were expressed.

Miss Scampini said she hasn't made a decision whether to appeal the matter to the California Supreme Court.

"I'll have to talk with Matt," she said.

J. Robert Courshon, prosecutor in the case, was informed of the decision by The Times. He said, "I'm ready to proceed to trial expeditiously."

The Presidency

Everyone knows that Thomas Jefferson called the Presidency a splendid misery, yet he was three times a candidate for the office.

Martin Van Buren lost the Presidency after a mud-slinging campaign that cost him months of anguish, yet he spent the rest of his life trying to recover the office. Harry Truman said he would rather be a soldier who had a Medal of Honor than President of the United States, yet he campaigned for re-election with more energy than nearly any other man who has aspired to that office.

Observing the trials of presidents, philosopher Ralph Waldo Emerson wrote, "The President has paid dear for his White House. It has commonly cost him all his peace and the best of his manly attributes."

With their president resigning (the first man in history to do so) and with a man assuming the office who was not elected president or vice president, citizens who are wide awake should find time to read about the nature of the American presidency.

A good place to start is with the words of the presidents themselves. Some of these can be found in an anthology entitled "The Presidents on the Presidency" with Arthur Bernon Tourtellot as compiler.

In a section of the limitations of the presidency we find each man who has held the position proceeding from his own philosophy of government. Thus Herbert Hoover believed he held no constitutional authority to stop the boom that caused the "Great Depression." Franklin D. Roosevelt, on the other hand, throught of himself as part of a three-horse team but still the chief executive.

From a section of the Tourtellot anthology we learn that Harry Truman believed that to be successful a president had to dominate his party. On the other hand, President Eisenhower believed that his only obligation to his party was to translate the platform into a legislative program.

SPEAKING OF THE president as an administrator Thomas Jefferson said the president should reserve the right to decide, independently of all other authority, what papers should be communicated "by him and to whom." Andrew Johnson claimed that a cabinet officer who held opinions irreconcilably opposed to those of the President should be severed from his office. Theodore Roosevelt stated his philosophy of the Presidency as, "The President's duty is to act so that he himself and his subordinates shall be able to do efficient work for the people, and this efficient work he and they cannot do if Congress is permitted to undertake the task of making up his mind for him ."

Preceding the words of the various presidents Tourtellot included in his book a discussion of the presidents as writers. He believes that Lincoln towers over all other Presidents in his literary genius. Jefferson was a master of language; F. D. Roosevelt a great public speaker because, "The speeches as finally delivered were his and his alone — no matter who the collaborators were."

Tourtellot found in the words of the Presidents that "James Monroe's papers reveal him as an admirable reporter. The papers show Jefferson's philosophic bent, Tyler's solitary integrity, Lincoln's vast perspective, Johnson's angry temperament, Grant's earnest incompetence, Franklin Roosevelt's buoyant improvising . . . Harding's limitations and the uneasy groping of his short administration."

We wonder what Richard Nixon's papers will reveal to a future generation.

Two Daly City Police Officers Promoted

The promotion of two Daly City police officers was announced this week to become effective Aug. 16.

James J. Barron was advanced from sergeant to lieutenant and Thomas Barner from officer to sergeant, it was announced by Chief of Police David A. Hansen.

Barron, 31, attended Polytechnic High School and City College of San Francisco. He graduated with an AA Degree.

He fulfilled his obligation with the U.S. Army and joined the Daly City Police Department April 12, 1965. He was promoted to sergeant Jan. 1, 1970. While with the Department he was assigned to the Detective Division in 1969 for an eight month period.

Barron served as patrol sergeant, traffic sergeant, vehicle sergeant and driving instructor for all Daly City Officers. He participated in Riot Control Training, First Aid Training, and attended FBI Bomb School, successfully completing a course presented by the U.S. Army entitled "Explosive Ordinance Reconnaissance Course and Explosive Sabotage Device Course".

He successfully completed the Supervisory Course at City College of San Francisco in 1970, and was named "Officer of the Year" by the Daly City Exchange Club in 1970 during National Crime Prevention Week.

Thomas W. Barner, 29, attended Sacred Heart High School. He is married and the father of three children. Barner attended City College of San Francisco and attained an AA Degree in Criminology. He joined the Daly City Police Department Aug. 8, 1966. He was assigned to the Detective Division in March, 1970 and after successfully completing this assignment was transferred to "J" Squad, which is the "elite Crime Prevention Squad" of the department.

He has participated in the Driver Training Course, attended the Narcotics Investigators Workshop and received a certificate for Advanced Officers Training at the College of San Mateo.

Sergeant Barner will be assigned to patrol duties, replacing Barron as Sergeant on the evening shift.

Lieutenant Barron will be the platoon commander on the midnight watch of the Patrol Division. His assignment will cause two other lieutenants to shift their assignments.

Lieutenant James Doran will command the evening watch, moving over from the midnight assignment. Lieutenant Thomas Culley will shift from command of the evening watch to the position of Platoon Commander of the day watch.

Rabbi Returns From Israel

Congregation Beth Israel-Judea announced that Rabbi and Mrs. Herbert Morris and their four children, Rena, Bram, Dena and Tamra have recently returned from a six month sojourn in Israel.

During their stay there they had an opportunity to travel extensively throughout the country, attending the schools, participating in archeological digs, volunteering at hospitals and residing side by side with the natives.

Just prior to their departure, Rabbi Morris's family took time out to visit a special forest in the hills of Judea to plant trees. To quote the Rabbi, "the experience was far more than ever imagined, we have only scratched the surface — it's an unusual land".

Friday evening, Aug. 16 at 8:30 p.m. and Saturday morning at 9:30 a.m., Rabbi Morris will resume the pulpit of Congregation Beth Israel Judea.

On Friday evening a special service has been planned to welcome the Rabbi and his family back to the Temple. Cantor Salo Blumenthal will conduct a volunteer choir: Dorothy Golden, Rose Greenspun, Yvonne Lorvan, Judith Miller, Robin Raphael, Sharon Rudolph, Edythe Sadowsky and Jeanne Stern. Dr. Leonard Beck, organist, will accompany.

Summer drags by for the social groups and organizations with very little activity but many of the fall calendars are beginning to take shape.

Mrs. James Morino of the Girl Scouts reports that the theme for 1974-75 is "Girl Scouting Keeps America Beautiful." A broad theme and one that is supplying local planners with lots of opportunities to build events around the basic concept.

Mrs. Caroline Futrell, activities chairwoman is drawing up a tentative list of special events which will include an early fall "Brownie Beauty hike" which will be organized by the Cadette Scouts. The youngest set of scouts will be picking up litter from somewhere in Daly City, possibly around Lake Merced or Thornton Beach.

The Senior Scouts will organize a Brownie Revel and when February rolls around there will be Thinking Day ceremonies at the War Memorial.

Scouting Keeps America Beautiful Day will be a city-wide celebration in cooperation with Boy Scouts and local civic leaders. A date in April will be selected.

A Junior Jamboree will start the fall program in mid October.

FRIENDS OUTSIDE is seeking counselors for the Family camp which will be held Aug. 24 to 30 in the Valley of the Moon in Sonoma.

NELL NORTON

Good morning, good cooks.

For the last two weeks this column has been devoted to baking goodies. Cookies and cakes were the order of the day. As much as I enjoy baking such treats and sharing the recipes with you good cooks, we must return to reality. And reality consists of full meals, not just desserts.

This recipe makes a thick and delicious ministrone soup that is delightfully easy to make, is inexpensive and serves 8 to 10. Sounds interesting doesn't it?

BETTY'S EASY MINISTRONE SOUP

- 2 quarts water
- 1½ cups tomato juice
- 1 can condensed bean with bacon soup
- 6 bouillon cubes
- 1 No. 303 can kidney beans
- 1 cup diced raw carrots
- 1 cup diced raw potatoes
- 1 cup diced celery
- ½ cup parsley, chopped
- 1 teaspoon basil
- salt and pepper to taste
- 1 cup crushed, uncooked elbow macaroni

In four quart kettle, combine the two quarts water, one and one-half cups tomato juice, one can bean with bacon soup, six bouillon cubes, one can kidney beans, one cup each carrots, potatoes and celery, one-half cup chopped parsley, one teaspoon basil, salt and pepper and one cup macaroni.

Bring to boil; cover and cook, stirring occasionally for one hour. Serve in pre-heated individual casseroles or soup bowls. Pass grated Parmesan cheese. Makes 3 quarts. Serves 8 to 10.

NOTE: Betty starts off this recipe with the note that one may omit or substitute the ingredients as desired. I made the following additions, one cup shredded cabbage and one clove garlic crushed.

PARMESAN BURGER CASSEROLES

- 1 lb. ground beef
- one-third cup dry bread crumbs
- ¼ cup chopped onion
- ¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- 3 cups hot mashed potatoes
- 2 Tablespoons chopped parsley
- Cherry tomatoes
- Mushrooms
- Green pepper, cut in chunks

Combine the one pound beef, one-third cup bread crumbs, fourth cup each chopped onion and Parmesan cheese; mix well. Shape into 4 patties; broil until done. Combine the three cups hot mashed potatoes with two tablespoons parsley. Place in 4 individual casseroles. Top each with meat patty. Broil until potatoes are lightly browned; sprinkle with additional cheese. Alternate tomatoes, mushrooms and green pepper on small oven-proof skewer; broil until hot. Place skewer in meat patty. 4 servings.

SSF Trustees to Discuss Teacher Wage, Policy Package

South San Francisco Unified School District trustees will be asked Thursday to give first reading approval to a set of 29 policies, involving teacher pay and working conditions, which the board had provisionally approved in the spring.

Approval will enable the board later to give its final approval to the policies upon conclusion of a teacher poll it is now conducting.

Tomorrow's meeting is in lieu of the regular meeting which had been scheduled for next Monday. It had been found that trustees who would be unable to be present Monday will be available Thursday.

The Certificated Employes Council has agreed to a request by the board for the survey. In a district-wide meeting, at the end of the school term, the teachers voted to accept the non-financial aspects of the agreement, but to reject the financial aspects, which included a nine per cent salary increase, of which five per cent was contingent upon certain local and state funds being available.

Supt. Paul Nielsen, however, had complained that only 27 per cent of the district's teachers attended the meeting when the vote took place. He and other district officials hope that the mailing will give a truer reflection of teachers' attitudes.

In addition, Dr. Nielsen will report on the district attorney's analysis of an attempt by the South San Francisco Planning Commission to rezone all of the district's lands to open space — meaning that no structures could be built upon them.

The City Council, at its last meeting, refused to go along with the Planning Commission recommendation after City Manager Ed Alario warned that the city may have to go to court to enforce the rezoning. Alario expressed hope that the city and school district could work out a joint plan for future use of surplus school sites.

Such sites will become a problem, he warned, since school enrollment will soon begin to decline. Any sales of surplus sites, se added, must be offered to the city first.

Dr. Nielsen declared flatly that the district attorney advised that the city has no jurisdiction over the school district, since the district is a subdivision of the state.

Volunteer Insurance

Some 950 individuals who work on a volunteer basis for five San Mateo County government departments soon will be covered by county-paid accident and disability insurance.

The County Board of Supervisors approved last week the allocation of $7,160 as the annual fee to include sheriff's reserves and volunteer workers in the probation, library, parks and recreation and health and welfare departments under the coverage.

County Manager M. D. Tarshes recommended the action, provided under a 1972 provision of the State Labor Code.

He said that total annual time put in by the volunteers equates to 73.6 full time county positions and more than justifies the cost of coverage.

Sports Careers

It seems to us that perhaps the most basic mistake NFL football players (or, for that matter, any professional athlete) make is in asserting, and perhaps believing that football (or baseball or basketball, etc.) is a career, and then basing all their arguments on that position.

Both the implication and dictionary definition of the word career is, "permanent calling." Now, being an owner is, if one chooses, a career. Thus, the owners have a true career in which to out-wait the football players, who have at best a short-term, high paying avocation.

Oh, sure, there are a few players who go into administration and do make a career of their sport, but their numbers are relatively small, and there is a large difference between a playing career in a sport and a career in a sport. Most players, if they're lucky, last only three to five years in pro football. That isn't a career, and thus their remunerations shouldn't be based on that proposition.

When the smoke clears, what many football players are going to realize — if perhaps many of them haven't already — is that they should have used college for something more than football . . . THAT is where they should have laid the foundations for a CAREER.

And then, if they ever do get out into the real world, they'll find out how much freedom they have THERE to change jobs willy-nilly. Oh, they'll be able to change them, but at a price. If they become teachers, for example, and change school districts, they will lose, depending on their number of years teaching, thousands of dollars off the top of their basic salaries. They'll also involuntarily have roughly one-third of their gross income impounded for mandatory retirement plans, medical plans (in some districts,) social security, and other things. And they will most likely get the teaching programs that nobody else wants. They will also be required in many cases — without pay — to attend PTA meetings, school dances, extra-curricular meetings, faculty meetings, on and on. Should they go into the unions, they could work under even tighter restrictions. They, in short, will have the same freedom to shaft themselves as the rest of us do, and which they already have, anyway.

BASEBALL NOTES: If nobody else will mention it, we will. Darrell Johnson has done a great and very underrated managerial job with the Red Sox. They've been up at or near the top of the Eastern Division of the AL all year, yet they've had as many troubles as any team in baseball. They lost Carlton Fisk, at the time the hottest hitter in baseball and consistently the best catcher in the AL, before midseason. They have gotten virtually no work at all out of two pitchers on whom they counted greatly, Rick Wise and Juan Marichal, who have had arm and back problems respectively. They lost Doug Griffin, one of the top second baseman in the league and also a hot hitter at the time, early in the season, and managed to patch up. They have gotten a disappointing performance from Reggie Cleveland, another of their traded-for pitchers (Wise and Marichal being the others) on whom they had depended for a standout season. As a team, the Red Sox have one of the highest earned run averages and lowest fielding averages in the majors, and there are better hitting teams in baseball. Yet, Johnson and his charges have managed to live well through it all.

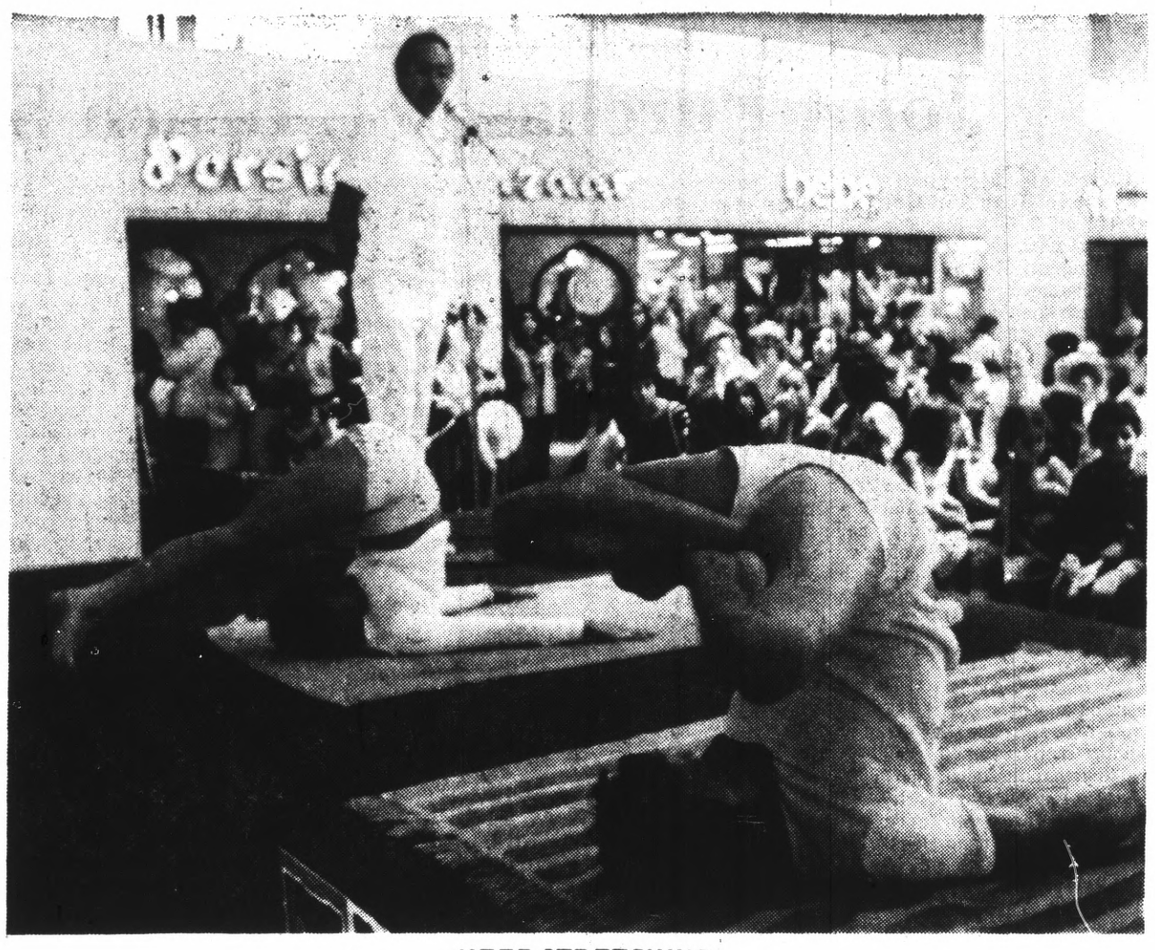
Joe Rudi must now be placed as the most underrated Oakland A. That accolade should go to southpaw reliever Paul Linblad, who has out-pitched Rollie Fingers and several of the other more publicized reliefers in baseball.

Don't be too encouraged by the team batting average of the Giants' Coast League farm club, Phoenix. While Phoenix is hitting .297 as a team, Albuquerque is hitting .311. That troupe belongs to the Dodgers. And Phoenix has fewer homeruns than any team in the league, just like the big daddy Giants.

We never realized it at the time, but Willie Mays left the Giants just one short of tying Mel Ott as the all-time RBI leader of the Giants — 1,860, to 1,859.

Forgotten amidst all of the money demands and special favors demanded by today's professionals: — when Lefty O'Doul — out of his own pocket — used to reward his bullpen of Eddie Stutz, Pard Balou and Bob Gibson with pints of bourbon if they saved a game. And how grateful they were for it.

LOCAL NOTE: Jack Burgett was recently named new head football coach at Jefferson High. He comes via S.F. State, where he has been an assistant for five years. Joining the 35 year old Pacifican will be Vernie Oliver from Terra Nova High. He will be head frosh-soph coach and assist with the varsity. He had assisted at TN for two years.



KEEP STRETCHING

The Daly City Recreation Department recently provided a colorful day of varied entertainment at Serramonte Center. Jorge Jauregui, (standing) yoga specialist, demonstrates through his students some of the psychodynamic exercises and postures which are included in the yoga instruction program offered by the Daly City Recreation Department. Classes for beginning students are held on Tuesday evenings with classes for advanced students conducted Monday evenings. All classes are held at Westmoor Park Clubhouse, and a new session will start the week of Sept. 23. There is an instructional fee, and interested residents should call 992-5356 for details.

Brothers Upset Mercian Club

The Brothers, vying for their first league win, jolted the Mercian Club, 39-37 in Daly City High School Recreation League basketball action at Westlake last week.

Leading by six at the start of the fourth quarter, the Brothers checked a Mercian scoring barrage in the last two minutes to save the two point win.

Greg Johnson with nine and Mike Crittendon, Greg Morgan, and Damon Hudson with eight each paced a balanced scoring attack for the winners. Doug Sheehan copped high game honors with 12.

The Gunners, displaying former championship form, blasted the Bombers 60-41 behind the scoring and leaping talents of Maurice Pittman 16 and Mike Scott 14 points. Mark Reed and Dan O'Shea paced the Bombers attack with 10 apiece.

In previous action, J.D. and the Gang remained atop the league with a 3-0 mark by whipping the Brothers and Bombers 55-36 and 67-39, respectively. In other contests the Gunners were upset by the Mercian Club, 46-44 but came back to swamp the Brothers, 71-43.

Standings

J.D. & the Gang	3-0
Gunners	2-2
Brothers	1-2
Bombers	1-2
Mercian Club	1-2

Thomas in Three Hit Shutout

Brian Thomas pitched a three hit shutout as the Cubs bear hugged the Seals 15-0 in Daly City Recreation Division's ior's slow pitch softball play.

Dennis Cauley and Larry Sholin hit home runs to pace the Cubs.

Dave Boasso homered, tripled, and singled as the Ram Rods came from behind to bottle the Brewers 8-4. Dan Tomczak, Ray Raskop and Ernie Garcia each had two hits.

Joe Solrazano knocked in four runs with a home run and a single.

DC 10: A Great Team Effort

The D.C.-10 came back from a first game loss to throttle S.F. Parking 20-3 behind a great defensive team effort by the D.C.-10 in Recreation Division Adult softball play.

Donald Carter, Mike Mjehovich, Steve Roche and Leighton AhPo supplied the hitting that propelled the DC-10 to the win.

Nestle's pasted the Dirty Dozen 23-6 behind Gary Andriene.

Bud's Ice Cream licked the Whispers 11-3 with a fifth inning assist from the Daly City Fog.

In B League South Bob Bruno's 10th inning three run triple enabled Butterfingers to slide past the French A.C. 7-3.

Sound defense and Tom O'Malley's timely hitting allowed D. J. Simpson to rip off an 8-4 victory over J. C. Penney's.

In other "B" League South action, The Rooks loaned Security Pacific a 9-3 victory, and Molly McGuires bugged the Water Gators to claim a 13-9 victory.

In "B Western" action, Don Urbanus extended his scoreless inning streak to 14 as the Regal Selects wrecked Able Building 11-0.

Other scores in the B Western division: well tuned Melody Toyota struck down Castle Lanes 12-7; The Car Thieves hot wired the Cripples 18-9; and the Turf Club galloped past Wards 13-8.

In "B league north" action, the Gamecock picked the Good Times Boys 5-4. Great defense highlighted the victory. Vince Laveroni and Ralph Olcese sparked the Gamecock defense. Solo homers by Tom Barner and Hal Garrett led Jerry's Barbers to a 9-6 clipping of Castle Lanes.

Flying Goose tripped the losers 18 while Canco chewed up Nestle 17-1.

Pomona Casuals bounced the B of A Vets 13-3. The Casuals were sparked by Don Luciano, Dan Caffareta, Mike Mjehovich and Jim Franco.

The Glen Club clawed the Wildcats 17-10 and the Sluggin Fools 30 hit attack drilled PT & T 22-19. The Fools were led by Mike Hobson, Joel Carrara, Marty Bassi, Bill Morgan and Kingsley Moore's 20 hit pitching.

Merchants Win Softball Tourney

The Coastside Merchants, Half Moon Bay, won the Class "C" Sports Association of Northern California Recreation Agencies Softball Tournament, as they cracked past Theisen Glass 10-9.

Ron Stockman and Jim Rice led the Merchants with three hits each in the victory. John Castallino paced the Glass club with three hits. The Coastside Merchants will now travel to Santa Clara for the Northern California Class "C" S.A.N.C.R.A. Softball finals.

The tournament will be held Aug. 24 and 25.

Also Ken Miller and Breen Hofmann rapped out three hite apiece, as the Coastside Merchants whalloped the Brewers, Redwood City 14-5 last week in Pacifica softball play.

Klein and Moy combined for four hits as Towne Realty, South San Francisco, shut-out PSD-10, Burlingame 1-0. Chambers paced PSD-10 with two hits.

John Fillipo belted out a homerun and three hits as Theisen Glass, Millbrae, nipped Westlake Lounge, Daly City 11-10.

Moy rapped out three hits for Towne Realty, but it was not enough as the Coastside Merchants used the three hits of Dale Sies to upend Towne Realty 8-6.

Open Gym Basketball sponsored by the Parks, Beaches and Recreation Department came to a close last week at Oceana High

Ford Honorary Mateo Marlin

President Ford was named Monday as an honorary member of the title-winning San Mateo Marlin Masters swim team.

Coach Ray Taft said the President's active interest in swimming will serve as an inspiration to Americans of all ages who seek to stay fit.

The Marlins, holder two years running of the AAU team title, divide swimmers into five-year age brackets starting at 25. Their 100 members range to 64 years. Ford is 61.

"The Marlin members were delighted to learn that the President is proficient in all swimming strokes — free-style, back, breast, and butterfly," said Taft.

"We have a spot on our team for a backstroker in President Ford's 60-64 age category. Our three swimmers in this group are Carl Mitchell, 64, Harry Koppel, 61, and Dr. Hal Weatherbe, 60" he said.

"We now are training for the national long course meet in Santa Clara in September. If the President wants to sent us his clocked time in this event I am sure he can qualify easily," Taft said.

A Marlin Masters team insignia was airmailed to the White House.

PROCLAMATION

Daly City Mayor McRobert Stewart signs a proclamation designating this week Better Water for Daly City Week, as Water Division Superintendent Herbert MacDonald looks on.

New Library Site Approved

Joint Purchase of Beach Slated

Board of Supervisors Chairman Jean Fassler started off a joint luncheon meeting with the Pacifica City Council Aug. 6 on a favorable note.

"I have some good news," she said. "We have approved your recommendation for a new library site."

Before dessert was served, councilmen received another piece of good news: the supervisors informally agreed to apply to the state for joint purchase of Pedro Beach at Linda Mar. They also agreed to work with the city on acquisition and recreational development of additional open space areas now held by the Federal government.

The Supervisors had that morning approved of a three-part recommendation by County Librarian James Buckley that the county buy a site next to Park Mall shopping center, on Terra Nova Boulevard near Oddstad Boulevard.

The library would be 10,000 square feet, plus another 1,500 square feet for a community meeting room. It would replace overcrowded store quarters at the Linda Mar Shopping Center.

Buckley said recently the library department would now draw up an Environmental Impact Report on the library, then move to acquire the site from Challenge Developments, which has been trying to get the site rezoned from commercial to townhouse use.

Then, the county's building construction and general services department which would have plans drawn up, with which to go to bid.

"We hope to break ground before City Manager Dave Thompson leaves," he said.

Thompson has resigned as of Oct. 1.

Buckley said that the purchase of the site need not take away funds for the library, since the library department does have a little extra to work with. Some $600,000 is budgeted for capital improvements, of which $450,000 is designated for the new Pacifica library.

Councilmen were jubilant Tuesday at learning of the supervisors' action. Two of them, Mayor Aubrey Lumley and Sidney Lorvan had been members of the site selection committee. Lorvan was representing the Laguna Salada School Board at the time.

The two projects — library and beach purchase — were the subject of many years of labor by Pacifica councilmen.

The proposal for the beach purchase, as outlined by Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald, was for the county and the state each to pay 25 per cent, with the remaining 50 per cent to come from the Federal Land and Water Conservation Fund.

Pacifica would agree to lease the property for "maintenance and development."

Mayor Lumley raised the point of what is meant by "development."

"We don't mean condominiums," said Supervisor William Royer.

Development means, it turned out, such features as parking lots and barbecue pits. "It also could mean a little sand placed on the rocks," one supervisor said.

Jack Brooks, county director of parks and recreation, assured the councilmen that there would be no restrictions on the use of county, state and federal money, as long as the beach were preserved for public use.

There was some uncertainty as to the exact land being purchased. It appeared to be the stretch of beach going north from the San Pedro rest-stop to the rocky headland — most of it owned by a development company. The price was referred to as "about a million dollars."

Mayor Lumley reminded the supervisors that the city already is investing a good deal in the beaches, including $30,000 for a beach cleaner and $50,000 to $60,000 for a rest area, as well as a summertime youth project to clean up the beaches. The Coastside Board of Realtors, in addition, wants to build a barbecue pit.

In addition, Supervisors Bob St. Clair asked about the city's stand on Freeway 380.

"Why couldn't it have come yesterday?" Lumley replied. Lorvan, however, noted that the council was by no means unanimous in its backing for the freeway.

ACTIVE DUTY

Navy Reservist Seaman Apprentice Thomas S. Murphy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Denis S. Murphy of 970 Nob Hill Road, and husband of the former Shirley M. Samuelson of 1176 Ruby St., all of Redwood City, has spent his annual two weeks active duty aboard the destroyer USS Carpenter.

He sailed from Oakland, to Pearl Harbor, Hawaii. After a few days liberty in port there, he participated in training exercises in the mid-Pacific with Destroyer Squadron 37.

LOOKING OVER MAPS

Dr. Richard Reis (left) executive officer of the Astronomical Society of the Pacific, looks over maps of Mercury with his assistant Ralph Palsson.

FURNACE FLATS

A homesite buyer is given an enlarged aerial photograph of his property on Mercury. The photograph was taken from the spacecraft Mariner during its flyby last year.

Out of This World Lot

tion and money derived from the "Mercury land rush" is tax deductible, it was learned.

But like all good things, land on Mercury cannot last forever.

The planet is only 3,000 miles in diameter and choice lots are going fast.

Besides a view lot, a "buyer" gets a quitclaim deed, and an enlarged aerial photograph of his property taken from the spacecraft "Mariner" during its flyby last year.

— Frank LaPierre.

Pet Fee Schedule Raised

It is going to cost San Mateo County residents more to license their pet dogs and even more to get them out of the pound beginning Jan. 1, 1975.

A new fee schedule was approved this week by the County Board of Supervisors.

Although the board action applies only to the unincorporated area, most of the county's cities have or are expected to approved the uniform fee schedule.

The annual license fee for an unaltered dog will be increased from the present $6 to $7, while the fee for an altered dog will increase from $3 to $3.50.

The impound fee for dogs and cats will increase from $5 to $10 for the first occurrence, with the fee increasing to $20 and $30 for the second and third occurrences respectively.

Impound fees are in addition to the boarding costs for dogs and cats, which will double, from $1.50 to 3 a day.

In a related action, the Board of Supervisors approved introduction of an ordinance authorizing animal control officers of the Peninsula Humane Society to issue citations to pet owners for violations of animal control ordinances in the unincorporated areas.

Shot Fired

A South San Francisco man ducked down in the cab of his pickup truck on the coastside Saturday just as one of two men he had chased off from the vehicle fired a rifle through the windshield at him, the sheriff's office reports.

Sheriff's Deputy Burt Walker said the bullet shattered the windshield, with fragments of glass cutting the face of the truck's occupant, Alvin G. Pearce, 52.

Pearce informed the deputy that he had been hunting rabbits off Stage Road about 100 yards east of Cabrillo Highway south of Half Moon Bay when he noticed two hippie-type men in the bed of his truck attempting to open a tool box about 8:30 a.m.

Adrian Stickney's Restaurant Operation

A quality restaurant operation always reflects the attitudes of its owners, as well as the employees involved. This is particularly true at the various Stickney's locations on the Peninsula, including Palo Alto's famed Shirt Tail restaurant. It seems Stickney's manage to find top-notch personnel, who, in turn, think most highly of their employer. A perfect example at the Shirt Tail is hospitable Kay Kirby, who has worked here since the restaurant opened. She aptly describes Adrian Stickney as "the best boss ever." . . . One of the reasons Jackie Phillips always gets a big ovation in the Finocchio's revue is because he's a comedian with a droll sense of humor, which is a rarity in show business. Deadline Passes

Property owners who sold South San Francisco its public safety complex site no longer have the option to buy back apartments on the land at prices set in an agreement last year.

The option deadline expired Monday and the City Council declined to grant an extension.

Councilmen had questioned the legality of the option specified in an agreement drawn up when the city purchased the land and apartments last year.

Under the agreement, the city agreed to sell back to Oak Farm Inc., an eight-unit apartment building at 323 Chestnut Avenue, for $15,000, and a five-unit apartment building at 946 Grand Ave., for $10,000. The city also had agreed to sell to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Uccelli, a four-unit apartment building at 743 Grand Av., for $10,000

Three weeks ago City Manager Ed Alario recommended a routine 90-day extension of the option to sell back the apartment buildings at the set prices. The council had consented to only a three-week extension.

Mondy night, Alario recommended extending the option on the eight-unit building only. The other two apartment buildings he urged should be sold with the land to the highest bidder since it now appeared the public safety complex plans could be scaled down.

Frank Addiego, director of public services, explained that to sell the eight-unit building with a site, the building could be moved back to the right of way for Miller Avenue extension. He announced that he would soon start proceedings for scrapping plans for extension of Miller, which would have linked the two portions of the street. The extension is now on the city's master plan.

City Atty. John Noonan reported to the council that the option agreement was proper, as part of the conditions of sale of the property. However, because the option had expired at midnight (it was 1 a.m., Tuesday, at the time) it must be considered as a new option, and it thus was questionable as to whether it should be offered to the highest bidder.

Councilman Warren Steinkamp moved to deny the option extension for all threat buildings. Councilman Leo Padreddii abstained from the otherwise unanimous vote.

Harbor District Fight Alive

San Bruno, the city that led the unsuccessful fight to dissolve the San Mateo County Harbor District, hasn't given up on that goal.

Although the County Board of Supervisors recently voted 4-1 not to dissolve the district, San Bruno officials Monday night voted to plunge into another attack on the district.

The council unanimously agreed to a request of Councilman George Corey to send a letter to the dozen cities in the county which offered support in the district's dissolution effort, asking that they get together and study various means — legal or political — to dissolve the district.

Corey made a brief presentation to the council on the history of San Bruno's effort, which began with a simple request to detach the city from the harbor district. He reminded the council that belonging to the district means a 3½-cent increase in the city's tax rate. (The city's tax rate went up 3½ cents for fiscal 1974-75.)

Corey said the board's decision was "much to our disappointment." He also claimed the district "serves a special clan of people."

Guard Held In Bribery

A security guard employed at San Francisco International Airport was arrested by sheriff's investigators Wednesday on suspicion of taking bribes from unlicensed limousine drivers over a period of five months.

Booked at county jail on three counts of accepting a bribe was Harold K. Richardson Jr., 44, of 141 Oak Court, Menlo Park, a security officer at the airport for the past three years.

Richardson later posted $5,000 bail and is to appear in Northern District Municipal Court Aug. 12 at 9 a.m. for arraignment.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Stanley Poling reported that Richardson, a former cab driver, is suspected of accepting weekly stipends from unlicensed limousine drivers who are not authorized to operate from the airport to avoid being cited or harassed in their illegal airport operation.

Poling said that a "large amount" of money is involved, but would not divulge specific figures.

It is charged that Richardson accepted the weekly payments during a period from Feb. 1, 1974, to July 7, Poling related.

Richardson was the security officer in charge of checking limousines at the airport limousine stand to be sure that only authorized vehicles picked up fares.

Poling said that the investigation leading to Richardson's arrest was conducted by the County Organized Crime Unit. Richardson was arrested by Sheriff's Sgt. Paul Giguierre and Detective William Windle when he arrived for work at 4 p.m.

As an airport security officer, Richardson also was a special deputy sheriff for San Mateo County. His salary was paid by the city of San Francisco.

The Perfect Host

Almaden Grenache Rose, 5th
Almaden Mt. Nectar Vin Rose, 5th

Frequently called an "anytime wine", a Rose wine would be a superb host to the silver salmon or Foster Farms Fryers that are featured this week.

Almaden Grenache Rose (pronounced Grenash Ros-A) is more dry than Almaden Mt. Nectar Vin Rose. Grenache Rose is a younger wine with just a trace of fruit taste. Mt. Nectar Vin Rose, on the other hand, has a subtle sweetness and a more pronounced fruit flavor. Both should be chilled three hours before serving.

Either wine is an excellent choice at $1.89.

Opening the Doors to Employment

Smith to 'Education Passport' Council

Appointment of Glenn P. Smith, San Mateo Community College District chancellor, to the national advisory council for a new "Educational Passport" project was announced last week.

The unique undertaking, aimed at opening both educational and employment doors for Americans of every age, is being conducted by the Educational Testing Service (ETS) under a $100,000 grant from Lilly Endowment, Inc.

As current proposed, each "passport" would be a personal document constructed and controlled by the holder, with up to 90 pages' worth of information contained on a single small sheet of microfiche. This would allow students and workers to describe themselves and their backgrounds to prospective schools or employers more effectively and in a more up-to-date manner than is now possible by other means, according to John Summerskill, vice president of ETS in Princeton, N.J.

Summerskill is a former president of San Francisco State University, and Smith, in his more than a decade of administrative service there before becoming San Mateo District chancellor, served with him in the late 1960s, first as assistant to the president and then as vice president for administrative and business affairs.

"In a day when the old lockstep progression of school to college to job to retirement is no longer the norm," said Summerskill, "we see a real need for a document which will effectively enhance access to prospective educational and employment opportunities for individuals as they move through life on timetables of their own choosing."

He predicted that the "passport" will particularly benefit persons who pass in and out of the academic scene at intervals, interspersing formal education with such other pursuits as work, homemaking, military service and a host of others. The "passport" will enable such persons to have constantly on hand optimum evidence of their qualifications for further schooling or employment.

Named to serve with Smith on the national council, which will refine project plans, were Dr. Nathan Brodsky, dean of continuing education, American University, Washington, D.C.; Dr. Mary P. Endres, vice president, Governors State University, Illinois; Alice J. Irby, vice president, Rutgers University, New Jersey; Dr. Sidney P. Marland, president, College Entrance Examination Board, New York City; Dr. Jerry W. Miller, a director of the American Council on Education, Washington, D.C.; and Dyckman W. Vermilye, executive director, American Association for Higher Education, Washington, D.C.

Pacifica Art Guild Sets Outdoor Fair

The Art Guild of Pacifica is holding its Annual Outdoor Art Show and Crafts Fair Sept. 14 and 15 at Pedro Point Meadow, on San Pedro Avenue and Grand Avenue in Pacifica.

The Meadow is being loaned to the Guild courtesy of Saint Peter's Church Council.

An inspiring exhibit by local and Bay Area artists of oil paintings, watercolors, mixed media, ceramics, stained glass, leather, and jewelry, all pieces will be for sale.

Viewers will meet the artists, many of whom will be demonstrating their skills. There will be music and entertainment throughout the fair. Refreshments will be available.

Adequate parking will be provided.

Four Level Rec Center At Colina

A $600,000 four-level recreation center, with an indoor swimming pool play and gym areas, opened in South San Francisco last week.

Its use, however, is confined to residents of the 438-unit Colina apartment project.

The opening was Aug. 7 at the center, located on Gellert and Westborough boulevards, as civic and business leaders attended the first party held at the center.

The first peninsula condominium project south of San Francisco that offers studio and one-bedroom models for sale, Colina also has two- and three-bedroom versions at prices ranging between $23,000 and $53,000.

Designed to portray a contemporary Mediterranean village, the first units open are part of a $20 million project which has been developed jointly by J & B Properties, Inc., and Grubb and Ellis Development Company, both Oakland based firms.

Ready for occupancy are 42 units, according to Dennis McElroy, project manager. An additional 48 units will be ready for occupancy by Oct. 1. There will be 145 units in the first building phase an a total of 438 units in four building phases, McElroy noted.

The recreation building has lounges on two separate levels. A massive wood-beam ceiling slopes down over spacious areas containing a billiard loft, two paddleball courts, a well-equipped exercise room, men's and women's saunas and a fully equipped kitchen. Vast open areas and corners overlook the six-acre park adjacent to Colina.

Southgate Sets Final Shows

The Southgate Theater Company will offer to the North County community two final performances of James Goldman's "The Lion in Winter," Aug. 16 and 18.

This powerful dramatization of a day from the life of Henry II, one of England's greatest kings, was described by New York critics during its original run as "A work of intelligence, astringent wit, and much theatrical skill." (The N.Y. Times). "Goldman carves syllables as pleasantly as he does hides," wrote the N.Y. Herald-Tribune," Wear a windbreaker. There's quite a gale."

The Southgate Theater Company performs at the United Methodist Church, 1474 Southgate Ave., Daly City. Curtain is at 8:15 p.m. on Friday and at 7:30 p.m. on Sunday.

Donations of $1.75 for adults and 75 cents for children will be required at the door.

Now Is the Time to Renovate Your Lawn

By IVA NEWMAN

Here on the Peninsula, the best time of year to seed lawns with Kentucky bluegrasses, fine fescues, bentgrasses, and perennial ryegrasses is autumn. This is familiar advice, and just as good this year as ever. There is just no substitute for the good weather, a promising season ahead, and a more relaxed job schedule, which combine in autumn to make it ideal for new lawn seedings or for upgrading thin turfs.

A new lawn starts most surely in well cultivated soil. Take advantage of cultivation to mix fertilizer into the soil bed, a one-time chance to work phosphorus into the root zone. Phosphorus, which fosters root growth, often gets tied up on soil particles and filters down very slowly from the surface. (Research scientists have found that phosphorus moves down into the soil at the average rate of ¼ inch a year.) A complete fertilizer containing all three major nutrients — nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium — is appropriate. Turf experts suggest that ten to twenty pounds of this "balanced" fertilizer be used for each 1,000 square feet of lawn. Using one of the newer, controlled or slow-release fertilizers will take care of the fertilizer needs of most lawn grasses for several months. Be sure to read the label and mark your calendar for the time of another application.

August is about the best time to prepare the soil for a new lawn as it provides time and warmth for weed seeds to germinate and be eliminated before the seed is planted. Turf specialists agree that the soil should be prepared, raked smooth, and watered. Weed seeds usually germinate within 10 days to two weeks. When up an inch or so they should be turned under so a second crop will come up. The soil should be worked very shallowly as deep digging will bring too many new seeds up to the germinating area. If a weed killer is used be sure to follow the directions on the package and wait the full time after applying before sowing the grass seed.

Mechanical Distributor

A mechanical distributor spreads seeds more neatly than can be done by hand. It does a great job with fertilizer, too, and with granular pesticides. Cyclone type spreaders cast seed from a whirling plate, in a swath about 10 feet wide, allowing a lot of ground to be covered quickly. After sowing, mulch the new seeding if possible, with a thin layer of straw or other protectant that will prevent drying out. Light watering to keep the planting moist should transform muddy ground into a cheerful carpet of green within a few weeks, or in days if turf-type perennial ryegrasses are included in the seeding mixture.

Where soil cultivation is not feasible, a tired lawn can be cultivated by scuffing the lawn's surface and then overseeding. "Power rakes" or turf thinners, which can often be rented, make light of this task. According to one of our local nurseries, a knock-down herbicide to fell unwanted vegetation, thus lessening competition for new seedlings, is available. The catch is that the state does not allow it to be sold to home owners in cans larger than quart size and manufacturerers usually put it out in gallon sizes. However, this material with the active ingredient (amino triazole) is available in one pound aerosol cans and in a powdered form that can be made into a spray. However the spray must be kept agitated to keep the powder in suspension. When using the liquid form, which is available at times, use plenty of sticker spreader. This material leaves a pre-emergence crust on top of the soil which is dissipated when the soil is cultivated, and leaves no toxic residues in the soil. After seeding a renovated lawn give it the same care and attention to watering as is used with a new lawn to bring up the grass seedlings.

Bent grasses do exceptionally well in this area when low-mowed lawns are wanted and the extra care they need is available. Colonial bents are the more easily cared for. They grow fairly upright, and are not temperamental when mowed about one inch high. Highland is a colonial bent native to Oregon. Exeter is an eastern selection from the University of Rhode Island. Holfior originated in Holland, and like Exeter, is said to be highly uniform though a bit more open-growing, an advantageous in mixtures.

Creeping bentgrasses are generally a bit more trouble. They require frequent, precise mowing at a low clipping height. Emerald, however, is reported to do well even under lawn-like (as opposed to "golf green") care. Kingstown is an exquisitely fine-textured bentgrass that provides the ultimate in elegant turf. It prospers with surprisingly little extra attention on the acid soils of the East but is not advisable for our overly alkaline soils on the Peninsula.

Shortages and inflated prices are causing reexamination of lawn keeping efficienty. Fortunately, efficiency efforts can be healthy for the lawn and lawn owner alike. Giving up a bulky riding mower for a light-weight walk-behind won't hurt the grass and it may save gas and waistline paunch. Lawn standards may have to become more realistic, too. Highly forced, luxuriant lawns may come to look ostentatious. They imply extravagance that trimmer turf on a sparser diet does not require.

Lawn mowing doesn't provide a lot of room for economizing. Grass should be clipped when it grows some 50 per cent beyond customary height. Slightly taller mowing may result in a little saving, both because the "50 per cent gain" probably will take a bit longer, and because low-clipped lawns show up unevenness more quickly. You can take good advantage here of new lawngrass varieties bred for low growth. Most of the new bluegrasses, fescues, and turf-type perennial ryegrasses have short leaf sheath and strongly bent-back blades that keeps most of the green tissue below cutting height. Not only can you wait a bit longer between mowings, but clippings are fewer, and, above all, the grass retains the greater part of its vital food-making green tissue. Increased vigor, wear, and density result.

Other worthwhile measures include taking advantage of aids tailored specifically for turf care. The "slow-release" lawn fertilizers that stimulate color without a great surge of growth fit nicely into the economy-of-maintenance picture.

ELLIOTT GOULD APPEARS TO BE GROWING UP

Elliott Gould takes himself very seriously. Ask him a question and he'll go into lengthy, convoluted monologue about his approach to acting, how he's been manipulated by his management, how he is misunderstood by the film industry, what a good or bad relationship he had with his director and a lot of rhetoric about his career.

But yesterday's luncheon conversation in his suite at the Hyatt Regency Hotel was more lucid than last years. So I assume he's learned more about himself, what he wants to do and where he's going. At least he offers opinions on the subjects although when he's through, I'm not all so sure I understood what he was saying.

His relationship with director Robert Altman for whom he made "M*A*S*H," "The Long Goodbye" and, currently, "California Split," a kinky comedy with George Segal about two gamblers, one who works on intuition and the other on evidence and a lot of pessimism as they team up to bet on anything and everything taking the bumps with the high stake thrills, has had its personality clashes. Right now they are thick as thieves but it wasn't always so, according to Gould.

"I had been fired from a New York play, "A Way of Life," and wandered out to the coast when Altman cast me in 'M*A*S*H.' But I first refused to do the role he suggested. Part of my problem has been doing what I was told, like a child. All actors and directors are children and I allowed myself to be led. I was made commercial."

"At one time Altman said he felt I was his enemy. But then he wasn't into himself. Now I'm one of his best friends. If I became a director, Bob would probably edit my films.

"After we made 'The Long Goodbye,' our relationship went from chaos to jeopardy. Now there is no more chaos. He allows me more liberty than anyone to get into character. He allows me to keep it fresh and gives me the freedom to develop my craft as an actor. I'm trying to talk him into doing Malamud's 'A New Life' with me and Donald Sutherland.

"I'd do anything he wanted me to do. But there was a time when I had to refuse. He wanted me to play McCabe in 'McCabe and Mrs. Miller' with Pat Quinn. (Julie Christie and Warren Beatty played it). But I had other pressures to be in 'I Love My Wife.' Altman told me I was making a big mistake that I could be another Jack Lemmon. I just couldn't work it out at that time.

"As for 'California Split,' it was written by someone I grew up with in New York a long time ago, Joey Walsh (who also has a small role in the film, as does his brother and wife) so naturally I wanted to play the role.

"But Altman had already cast George Segal as one of the guys and felt he wanted to team him with Malcolm McDowell, Peter Falk or Steve McQueen. McQueen wanted so many rewrites that Altman finally got back to me and reversed the roles so that I played the character originally slated for Segal.

"Altman is not articulate in personal relations and at first told me he realized I know as much about filmmaking as he and needed total control. He didn't want to ride on the crest of my wave.

"My instincts are to work alone but I have to learn to work with others too."

When asked if that need to succeed alone might be due to a sense of competition with his ex-wife Barbra Streisand," he quickly and unemotionally retorted, "I never competed with Barbra."

"I lived the life of 'California Split' betting on night games and understand the feeling of having to keep active as a way of life. The title refers to a poker game where the high and low both win. I think the picture really gets into the frantic spirit of gambling. I understand the guy and what drove him.

"George and I never worked together before. But we will again. We're considering a musical of the Broadway show 'No Where To Go But Up.' My next project is 'Whiffs' with Godfrey Cambridge, Eddie Albert and Jenifer O'Neill (who he is reportedly going to marry) about the effect of chemical warfare on a soldier who becomes immune and they have to let him go.

"People forget I got my start in musicals. I was in the Broadway chorus before I got my break in the musical 'I Can Get It For You Wholesale' (where he met and married Barbra Streisand) and toured with Liza Minnelli as El Gallo in 'The Fantasticks.'

"Peter Bogdanovich wrote his latest musical with me in mind but that's another role I won't do. I'm interested in working with anyone who is interested in working with me for the right reasons. I'd like to work with the Japanese director Akira Kurosawa ('Rashomon') and sent him a letter where he was working in Russia. But it came back.

"I talk more independently than I'm able to be. I have a lot of people to support."

Bids Told

The California Department of Transportation (CALTRANS) in Sacramento has opened bids on several San Mateo projects. Contracts will be awarded by the department after verification of bids.

There were five bids opened for resurfacing of nine miles of highway at four locations on state routes 84, 9 and 82 in San Mateo and Santa Clara. Apparent low bidder was Granite Construction Co. of Watsonville, at $349,305.

There were three bids for repairing of a slide just north of the Route 1 interchange in Daly City on Highway 35. Apparent low bidder was the Remmil Corporation of Oakland, $88,888. There were three bids for installation of a pumping plant to dispose of drainage water from the Junipero Serra Freeway (280) in San Mateo County, with McGuire & Hester, Oakland, apparent low at $78,885.

DISPLAY CLASSIFIED 721—MILLBRAE

The best view in this $80,000 neighborhood costs $57,500.

And you can purchase it at 8-3/4%.* Impossible? Not now, but it soon will be as these three bedroom view condominiums atop the Mills Estate property will probably be sold out within a month. The reason—everything is here except the high price tag.

The view is the best on the North Peninsula. Your private balcony gives you a panoramic view of the Peninsula and San Francisco Bay. Above it all, and close to everything. Easy access to Highways 101, 280, and the train station makes commuting a snap.

The space inside is as beautiful as the space outside. Plush carpeting, draperies, oven, range, refrigerator, washer/dryer, dishwasher, and fireplace are all included. The recreation center, swimming pool, and saunas are ready for summer.

The time to move up to Millbrae Heights is now. When these are sold, that's it. Three bedrooms, two baths, from $57,500. Ready for immediate occupancy.

By Alpha Land Company, naturally.

Freak Accident Kills 3-Year-Old S. Brunan

A 3-year-old San Bruno boy was pronounced dead on arrival at Peninsula Hospital, Burlingame, Sunday afternoon, after a bathtub propped up against a backyard fence apparently fell over on top of him, officials said.

Dead is Charles Neil Lacey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Lacey, of 1792 Holly Ave. He is the grandson of Gwen Lacey, a dispatcher for County Communications in Redwood City.

San Bruno Officer Bob Timko, who responded to the residence at about 3 p.m. on an initial call of "a hysterical woman," said there apparently were no witnesses to the incident.

Timko said he arrived to hear the boy's 26-year-old father yelling "Charlie's dead. He's in the back yard." The father was treated for shock at the hospital, said Timko, who unsuccessfully attempted mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

According to Timko, the father, an employe of Crocker Bank, and the son were in the backyard together, where, against the west wall of a small patio stood a bathtub, with the hollow part of the tub against the wall.

Timko said the father went into the garage momentarily and when he returned he couldn't immediately locate his son. He looked near where the bathtub was and then realized his son was lying beneath it, said Timko.

It is theorized, said Timko, that the youngster might have attempted to climb up on the tub, which had the drain spout, about 10-inches up from the ground, sticking out about 3 inches.

According to Timko, the child may have fallen off the tub which came down on top of him, hitting him on the skull.

Coroner's officials said the boy died of a skull fracture.

Scouting Showcase

Flyers are going to all Northern District Scout units this week, announcing the date change for Scouting Showcase '74 to Sept. 28 and 29 on the Serramonte Shopping Center Mall, according to Scout Executive Dave Avolio.

Units will be asked to contact their commissioner for booth or display ideas, preferred set up times and booth size requirements.

Present unit signups include Pack 76's four act play depicting the history of America, climbing "monkey" bridges and towers and gold panning by Pack 282.
